Ford Denies Deal

. . . President Defends Pardon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford declared Monday night he is absolutely convinced he made the right decision in pardoning a "shamed and disgraced" Richard M. Nixon. He said there were no secret deals and no secret reasons for the pardon.

And Ford added that the former president's acceptance of the pardon can be construed as an admission of Watergate guilt.

"I must say that the decision has created more antagonism than I anticipated," Ford acknowledged at a White House news conference. But he said it was right for the nation, for the sake of national healing and unity.

"As I look over the long haul with a trial or several trials of a former president, criminal trials, the possibility of a former president being in the dock so to speak, and the divisions that would have existed . . . I'm still convinced that despite the public reaction so far that the decision I made was the right one."

Again, and again at the nationally broadcast and televised news conference, the questioning turned to the pardon, and Ford defended it.

"I had no secret reason," he said at the outset. Nor, said Ford, did he have inside information on Nixon's health — although he was not oblivious to reports that the former president was ailing.

And later, Ford said there were no private deals: "There was no understanding, no deal between me and the former president nor between my staff and the staff of the former president, none whatsoever."

Instead, Ford said, there was his concern that Nixon would be indicted for obstructing justice and possibly 10 other counts, that the proceedings would drag out for well over a year, and that they would worsen the national wounds of Watergate.

On other major points:

—Ford said tape recordings and documents of the Nixon years are still at the White House, and will be available for use as evidence in Watergate trials. While they are deemed to belong to Nixon, Ford said they will be available under subpoena for any criminal proceeding.

—The President declared, "Let me say very strongly that the United States is not going to have a depression." He said the over-all U.S. economy is strong, and employment is high, despite the problem of inflation.

—Ford said the United States was not involved in the military overthrow of the government of Salvador Allende as president of Chile, despite recent disclosure that the CIA financed covert operations there. The President said U.S. efforts in that situation were to help preserve the opposition press and political parties, which faced destruction by the government.

In response to a question about conditional amnesty on one hand and the full and complete pardon granted Nixon on the other, Ford said:

"In one case you have a president who was forced to resign because of circumstances involving his administration, and he has been shamed and disgraced by that resignation. In the case of draft dodgers and military deserters, we are trying to heal the wounds by the action that I took . . ."

While he differentiated between the circumstances of pardon and amnesty, he said both sought the same goal: The healing of national divisions and wounds.

Couple Given Extra Time

An elderly Lincoln couple has escaped eviction, at least for awhile.

Community Development Director Leo Scherer said Monday his staff will recommend that 45 more days be granted for the couple's home to be satisfactorily repaired.

Scherer said that report will be made Tuesday by Housing Administrator Carl Kopines, who inspected the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lindell Monday afternoon.

On Saturday, 23 volunteers carted out crates of combustible materials, cleaned up the yard and started to repair the electrical wiring in the house, at 618 S. 19th.

A week ago Kopines held a hearing on an appeal of the original city order declaring Lindell's house unfit to live in. After that hearing, Kopines said he would check the house in a week to see if promised repairs had been made.

On Aug. 6 Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf signed an order declaring that emergency. That action could have resulted in the placarding of the house, resulting in the couple's eviction.

Even though some repairs were made, Scherer said there are still serious violations of the housing code. He cited the roof, which he said is deteriorating, and structural defects in the foundation.

At the end of the 45-day grace period, Scherer said another inspection will be made.

The Lindell's home has been dubbed "the Jesus House" by many Lincolinites because the exterior of the house is covered with religious sayings. Lindell contended that he was being singled out by the city because of those religious verses.

Nebraska Amnesty Reaction Negative

With some exceptions, reactions around Nebraska to President Ford's post-Vietnam amnesty plan are negative. Some think it's too little; others think it's too much.

The most notable exceptions are Nebraska politicians.

Sen. Roman Hruska said he would like more time to study the plan because of its complexity, but, "in general, I would say that it is a conscientious effort on the part of Mr. Ford to deal fairly with the problem."

The plan distinguishes between war resisters who have been indicted and those already convicted. It calls for all to serve up to 24 months alternate service in "low income" jobs. Alternate service will be supervised by the National Selective Service director, and war resisters will be judged by a nine-member clemency board.

Up To President

According to the Associated Press, Hruska stressed that Congress has no role to play in any change in the conditions of clemency, as this is a prerogative of the President, as set forth by the Constitution.

The senator said the "President has presented a plan which seeks to establish a national uniform policy to handle and decide these cases. The subject is very complex, technical and difficult."

Sen. Carl Curtis was on the floor of the Senate most of Monday and unavailable for comment.

First Dist. Rep. Charles Thone was also unavailable for comment; he was traveling through his district.

Thone's Democratic opponent in November, Hess Dyas, has said he favors conditional amnesty.

Priorities Mixed Up

The coordinator of the National League of Families said in Omaha President Ford had his priorities mixed up when he offered conditional amnesty to draft dodgers and deserters, according to United Press International.

"I think it's a sickening situation when our country takes people who did not serve their country and places them at a higher priority than those who did serve," Mrs. Kay Bosiljevac of Omaha said.

"It's more a matter of priorities than anything else — there are 1,300 men listed as missing in action in the Indochina war and the government is ignoring them," she said.

Mrs. Bosiljevac's husband, Michael, is one of the men listed as missing. Nebraskaans for Peace worker Marilyn McNabb would say only that group members think Ford's treatment of war resisters is anything but amnesty.

The group scheduled a Thursday news conference at 10:30 a.m. to give a more complete statement.

Larry Zink of Lincoln, who spent March 1971 until May 1972 in federal prison for burning his draft card, called the plan a "token gesture."

Zink was a junior at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in February 1969 when he burned his draft card at a public meeting on campus.

"Didn't Have Strength"

"Mostly," Zink said, "I feel sadness that the President didn't have the strength to go all the way to solve the problem of divisiveness in the country."

Mrs. Joe R. Seacrest of Lincoln, whose son Ted fled to Canada, described the amnesty plan as a "nice" gesture.

"I believe the majority won't come back," Mrs. Seacrest said. "They've made lives for themselves. Their (adopted) countries have been very good to them, and many may feel they owe a certain amount of allegiance to that country."

In a telephone interview from Toronto, George, an evader from Lincoln who did not want his last name used for fear it would hurt his family, said, "It isn't any amnesty."

George, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, fled to Canada in early 1970.

"I'll be extremely surprised if very many people will go back under these conditions because a lot of the people I know up here consider the amnesty program little more than a bad joke," he said.

George added that he has no desire to return home, although he would like to be allowed to visit without fear of arrest.

Tom Cook of Lincoln, a Vietnam veteran, feels resisters who stayed in the U.S. to fight for what they believed in should be granted full amnesty and full veterans rights, and full veterans rights, but that those who fled the country deserve nothing.

Another Vietnam veteran, Tom Wilson of Lincoln, said he would be "content" with the latest proposal.

Nebraska VFW Adjutant Condon King said, "It isn't what we wanted."

To Hurt Standing

King added that he thought the amnesty offer would hurt President Ford's standing with Nebraska VFW members.

"Our feeling is that they should come back and face the laws of the land," King said.

Lincoln VFW Post 131 Commander Donald J. Robbins Sr. said of the post's stand on the plan: "We believe in law and order. We do not believe in amnesty."

Resisters should go through civil courts, and deserters should go through military courts, he said, where each case should be judged individually.

"That's why we have courts, judges and juries," Robbins said.

American Legion State Adjutant Ray Oltman of Lincoln, said Nebraska legion members support the national opinion adopted in Miami last month. It said each case should be tried on its own merits by an amnesty board similar to those set up in past post-war amnesties.

Speaking for himself, Oltman said he thinks war resisters "have to answer for leaving if they want to come back."

Oltman says he judges deserters to be worse than draft resisters because deserters "walked out on their buddies as well as their country."

Oltman was in the Air Force during World War II.

'Very Hypocritical'

Ron Kurtenbach, one of the editors of the Lincoln Gazette, called the plan "a very hypocritical act."

"Resisters were prophets of how unjust the war was and still is," Kurtenbach said. "They should be respected as moral human beings."

He said the plan is another cover-up to hide acts of Richard Nixon.

Paul Newhouse, a Peace Corps member and former Lincoln Draft Information Center counselor, said it's wrong to place conditions on re-entry.

He said the center counseled up to 30 men a week between 1968 and 1972.

Ford Amnesty Conditioned On Work, Loyalty To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford set in motion Monday government machinery to grant conditional amnesty to Vietnam-era draft evaders and deserters if they reaffirm their allegiance to the United States and work for up to 24 months in public service jobs.

Hours later, at a nationally broadcast news conference, Ford said the move was an effort to bind up wounds left by the unpopular war, and was unrelated to the pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon except that the pardon, too, was intended to bind up the nation's wounds.

Under the program, draft evaders and military deserters who have not been convicted or punished can turn themselves in before next Jan. 31, reaffirm their allegiance and agree to spend up to 24 months in approved public service jobs such as hospital orderly.

The President set no minimum period of alternate service, but said the 24-month requirement can be reduced "for mitigating circumstances."

For men already convicted or punished for desertion or draft evasion, Ford established a nine-member clemency board to review their cases "as equitably and as impartially as is humanly possible."

The Lincoln Telephone Directory closes at 5 P.M. September 28! Call in changes now . . . Adv.

Men now in prison will have their cases review first, and officials said their confinement would be suspended as soon as possible.

Reaction to Ford's announcement was mixed.

Senate Republican whip Robert Griffin of Michigan hailed it as a courageous, compassionate move and House Republican leader John Rhodes of Arizona said it should have broad support in Congress.

Among the Democrats, House Speaker Carl Albert said he is accepting the President's leadership but added, "I don't know what he is going to do, to tell the truth." Sen. Majority leader Mike Mansfield said he would give full support to the program. Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., said the action was unfair to those who served in Vietnam.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said he estimates that 2,500 draft resisters will take advantage of the conditional amnesty offer and that a larger number of deserters will do so.

No congressional action is required for the program, which was enacted under the presidential powers of the Constitution.

Ford used those same provisions eight days ago to grant an unconditional pardon to former President Richard M. Nixon.

Ford described the main purpose of the program as "the reconciliation of all our people and the restoration of the essen-

Judge Dismisses Counts Against 2 AIM Leaders

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A federal judge on Monday dismissed all five felony charges against two American Indian Movement leaders charged in the Wounded Knee, S.D., takeover last year. But he denied a motion for acquittal that would have left defendants Russell Means and Dennis Banks free from further prosecution.

U.S. District Judge Fred Nichol cited "government misconduct" in dismissing the charges — three counts of assault, one theft and one of conspiracy — against Banks, 42, and Means, 35.

He renewed earlier criticism of the FBI and said Asst. U.S. Atty. R.D. Hurd had deceived him about one government witness.

Nichol's ruling — which the prosecution can appeal within 30 days — ended an oft-tumultuous eight-month trial stemming from the 71-day armed occupation of the Pine Ridge Indian reservation village beginning Feb. 21, 1973.

Last April, Nichol issued a finding that the government illegally tapped a phone at Wounded

Knee and said at the time that he was almost at the brink of dismissal.

"I have been shoved over the brink," Nichol said Monday.

Nichol's ruling came on a defense motion filed Saturday and claiming fresh government misconduct. It was issued shortly after Hurd, acting on instructions from the Justice Department in Washington, refused to go along with an 11-member jury when a doctor reported that a juror who became ill on Friday would not be able to resume deliberations. Hurd had called the juror, Therese Cherrier, 53, the most prone to convict.

In opening his one hour and 10-minute address to the jury and a packed courtroom, Nichol explained that Mrs. Cherrier had suffered a stroke and partial paralysis of her left arm and leg. Nichol said her doctor concluded she "will not be able to return to deliberations in the immediate future."

The defense team of five lawyers and Means and Banks and their AIM sympathizers hugged each other during an exuberant news conference outside the courthouse.

Defense attorney William Kunstler told the throng: "I think today was a blow for freedom for everyone. If this isn't a clear warning that someone must begin the cleansing process in America, then I don't know what a clear warning is."

Nichol criticized the government for its handling of its chief rebuttal witness, Louis Moves Camp, 22, of Rapid City, S.D. Nichol called it "probably the most bizarre incident in the trial."

The judge said that testimony showed Moves Camp was taken to what he called a "plush resort" near Hudson, Wis., and "they gave him the royal treatment. I didn't realize the FBI was stooping so low. If they were protecting him, I didn't see protection that way."

Nichol said Moves Camp got involved with a high school student one night and that a few hours later she requested that rape charges be filed. The county prosecutor at River Falls, Wis., has not filed the charges, however.

Committee in answer to a subpoena from Chambers, acting as committee chairman.

The sheriff had refused to answer questions from Chambers unless ordered to do so under oath.

Chambers pointed to a number of incidents and reported instances in which he said special deputies abused their authority.

"Are these citizens who are interested in obeying the law?" he wondered.

Janing said he is taking steps "to reduce the numbers" of his special deputies.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Joseph Thornton told Chambers he believed the senator's questions had gone "far afield" from the county jail study which the 1974

Legislature authorized his committee to undertake.

"I agree with you completely," Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh told Thornton.

"The committee is being used to pursue a particular goal . . . I prefer not to participate further."

With that, DeCamp walked out of the hearing.

"You're excused," Chambers told him.

Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln said Chambers "followed every necessary step" to assure the legitimacy of Monday's hearing.

"I expect to continue to be criticized," Chambers said. But he will pursue efforts to "tighten up the administration of justice," he insisted.

Vets Groups, Resisters Criticize Program

By The Associated Press

Veterans' groups and draft resisters criticized President Ford's amnesty program on Monday. The ex-servicemen said those who evaded military duty hadn't been punished enough; the men who fled said they shouldn't be punished at all.

John J. Stang, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said in Washington that Ford's action "does a gross injustice to those who served honorably, those who died and received wounds, and those who were for so long imprisoned."

The opposite view was expressed by American exiles in Canada and Sweden where many of the draft resisters fled to escape military service or jail.

"It is too much to ask that we accept punishment for justified resistance to the illegal and immoral U.S. war in Indochina," said Jack Calhoun, a spokesman for AMEX-Canada, a magazine published in Toronto by draft resisters and deserters. He urged the draft resisters to boycott the proposal. George Meals, a former resident of

Atlanta, Ga., now living in Sweden, agreed. "This is a disguised form of punishment," he said. "In the spirit of the law, we did nothing wrong."

Congressional reaction was more favorable. Key leaders on Capitol Hill endorsed the plan and the few congressmen who protested indicated they didn't want a legislative fight on the issue.

Ford's program, announced Monday, provides amnesty in exchange for up to two years of alternative duty in public service jobs. Those wishing clemency must turn themselves in by Jan. 31, 1975.

Stang took issue with the idea of public service jobs. "Why provide jobs for those who would not serve when the unemployment rate for the young Vietnam veterans is over 10 per cent?" he asked.

William Hauck, national adjutant of the American Legion, said Ford's plan "violates the principles for which millions served their country honorably, thousands died in combat, thousands more were wounded."

Bus Mills, executive director of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, was equally unhappy. "We are completely bewildered and disillusioned," he said, complaining that Ford announced his amnesty program "before he announced any plans to obtain an acceptable accounting for the 1,300 U.S. servicemen still unaccounted for in Southeast Asia."

On the other side, Mary Ramberg of the Mississippi chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said those who evaded service "have committed no crimes. And yet the justice they're getting is really a mock trial outside the judicial system. It's just not enough."

Steven Wayne Trimm, 25, a former Chatham, N.Y., resident now living in Hamilton, Ont., fled to Canada in 1969 after an appeals court refused to overturn his conviction on draft evasion charges. Trimm, who sought exemption as a conscientious objector, was charged with bail jumping when he fled north and he said Ford's plan leaves too many questions unanswered. "I would have to be assured, even if I may get amnesty for the initial conviction, I will have immunity from the bail jumping charges," Trimm said.

As for the job program, he said: "It depends on the work. I have nothing against humanitarian work, if it's truly humanitarian. But who knows yet what it is precisely."

Chet Briggs of Atlanta, Ga., regional coordinator of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors, said the President had chosen "a political solution to a real problem" and predicted most draft evaders would reject the offer.

Robert McAfee Brown, a professor of religious studies at Stanford University and one of the founders of an antiwar group called Clergy and Laity Concerned, said Ford's proposal was not one of amnesty.

"Amnesty means forgetting," said Brown, "whereas the presidential proclamation is a rigorous exacting of penalties for alleged misconduct followed by an extremely limited kind of so-called forgiveness."

Goodell To Head Clemency Board

Washington (UPI) — Former Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell, a dove on the Vietnam war, was named Monday to serve as chairman of the nine-member clemency board that will review draft evasion and military desertion cases.

Goodell, 48, was appointed senator from New York following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968 but fell out of favor with the Nixon administration because of his strong stand against its war policies.

He lost his Senate seat to conservative James Buckley in 1970 following a campaign in which former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew spoke out against his "radical" ideology.

Goodell, however, has long been a friend of President Ford. Goodell was one of the younger members of the House who helped propel Ford into its leadership.

Other members of the board will be:

—The Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, 57, president of Notre Dame University and former chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

—Robert H. Finch, 51, who served as counselor to former President Nixon after being secretary of health, education and welfare and who is now a lawyer in Los Angeles.

—Vernon E. Jordan, 39, executive director of the National Urban League and a lawyer.

—Lewis W. Walt, 61, retired Marine Corps general who was an assistant commandant of the Marine Corps and a veteran of World War II as well as the Korean and Vietnamese conflicts.

—Mrs. Aida Casanas O'Connor, 52, a lawyer now serving as assistant counsel to the New York state division of housing and community renewal in New York City.

—James P. Dougovita, 28, a veteran and captain in the Michigan National Guard who works full time as a teaching aide for minority students in the applied technology department at Michigan Tech University.

—Ralph Adams, 59, president of Troy State University in Troy, Ala., and a brigadier general in the Alabama Air National Guard.

—James Maye, 31, executive director of the "Paralyzed Veterans of America" organization based in Washington.

Goodell... was dove.

Proposed Oath's Wording Given

Washington (UPI) — Here is the proposed wording of the oath of allegiance to the United States that war resisters and draft evaders would be required to take:

"I (name) do hereby solemnly reaffirm my allegiance to the United States of America. I will support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, and will hereafter bear true faith and allegiance to the same.

"I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, so help me God."

A simultaneous announcement by China and the Philippines said Mrs. Marcos will visit Peking Sept. 20-27 at the invitation of Chinese Prime Minister Chou En-lai.

It said Mrs. Marcos, as a special representative of President Ferdinand E. Marcos, will explore "additional areas of bilateral cooperation particularly in the fields of culture and technology with a view to eventual normalization of relations between the two countries."

It was the third day of court-ordered busing to integrate the city's 200 public schools. Twenty-two people were arrested. For the first time, however, the day passed without injury to students being bused.

Haig Persuaded Ford To Give Nixon Pardon

By The New York Times

San Clemente, Calif. — The White House chief of staff, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., after having been advised of the "alarming state" of Richard M. Nixon's health, was reliably reported Monday to have persuaded President Ford to reverse his publicly stated position and grant an immediate pardon to the former president.

A longtime friend of Nixon identified Haig as the person "primarily responsible" for the surprise pardon announced Sept. 8 by Ford. This friend, who is a former member of the presidential staff, is in daily touch with affairs inside the Nixons' heavily guarded Casa Pacifica estate here.

Haig, he said, warned Ford Aug. 29 that unless he moved quickly in announcing a full, unconditional pardon, instead of waiting for legal action to be taken, it might be too late to avert what he called "a possible personal and national tragedy" of Nixon's complete physical and mental collapse.

Only the day before the President had told newsmen that he would not act on a pardon until legal action had been brought against Nixon for his role in the Watergate case or other federal offenses related to that scandal.

Reports From Daughters

The four-star general, a holdover from the Nixon administration who was named Monday commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces, was reported to have initiated the highly secret pardon discussions after having received accounts of Nixon's deteriorating physical and emotional health from the Nixon daughters, Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox.

He is said to have immediately discussed the reports at length in telephone conversations with Ronald L. Ziegler, the former White House press secretary who is now Nixon's closest confidant.

The informant said that, in convincing the President of the necessity for an immediate pardon "for the sake of not only Mr. Nixon's health but the country's health as well," Haig enlisted the support of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Haig was also said to have received, directly or indirectly, even more alarming reports of the former president's condition from Nixon's intimate friends, Charles G. Rebozo and Robert H. Abplanalp.

'Really Lobbying'

One former counselor to Nixon said Rebozo and Abplanalp were "really lobbying," seeking to build a basis of sympathy for the former president, who resigned Aug. 9. He implied that it was they who had conceived the idea of enlisting Haig's help.

Rebozo and Abplanalp reportedly discussed the matter with the Nixon daughters and their husbands, David Eisenhower and Edward F. Cox, who then began making public statements, first anonymously and later for direct attribution, about the seriousness of Nixon's health.

The informant, who obtained the account of Haig's role from members of the Nixon staff, said it was unclear whether the Nixon daughters and their husbands had gone to Haig or whether he had consulted them after the growing rumors and reports of Nixon's deteriorating emotional state.

"In any event," the informant said, "the deep concern of the family and their desire for some presidential action that would contribute to lifting Nixon's mental depression and worry over his uncertain future convinced Haig of the need for a prompt pardon, which he knew would come ultimately in any event."

Silence Maintained

Meanwhile, the informant said, Ziegler and others around Nixon made no attempt to discourage even the most exaggerated reports, including statements that Nixon had "lost all contact with reality" and that it was feared he might, in a fit of depression, do himself physical harm.

The silence at the Casa Pacifica led to even more unconfirmed reports.

According to the informant, Haig prevailed upon the President not to consult in advance with Republican leaders in Congress, arguing that to do so could involve delays and complications "which the situation may not permit."

"According to the explanation here, Haig felt strongly that any advance disclosure would lead to controversy and probably congressional demands for a detailed explanation of the reasons underlying the President's abrupt decision," the informant said.

Haig evidently feared that Congress might insist that so sweeping a pardon, affecting as it did future disclosures of Watergate events, should be authorized by a resolution of Congress. He apparently wanted to avoid any such delay.

Jaworski Consulted

The informant said that, even before Ford had directed White House counsel Philip W. Buchen Aug. 30 to learn from Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski how long it might be before Nixon could be assured of an impartial trial, Haig had consulted the prosecutor.

The Haig-Jaworski meeting was said to have been for the purpose of "documenting his case" when Haig presented the proposal for an immediate "humanitarian" pardon to the President Aug. 29.

Soon afterward, Haig was said to have assured Nixon that a "full, free and complete pardon" would be forthcoming in a matter of days. The assurance was received before the arrival here Sept. 5 of Benton L. Becker, a Washington lawyer sent by Buchen.

Becker was under instruction to say that a pardon was probable, provided an agreement could be reached with Nixon, his lawyer, Herbert J. Miller, and Ziegler as to its details, including the response that Nixon would make.

Beatrice Council OKs One-Mill Tax Hike

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — The Beatrice City Council Monday night approved a total mill levy of 22.7438, a one mill increase. Mayor Robert Sargent commended the slight 5.5% increase and said "I think we have done our jobs well."

The council's agenda was relatively routine following several lengthy meetings dealing with the city's garbage pickup problems.

The council heard a presentation on behalf of the Safeway Stores Inc. to rezone property adjacent to the current Safeway site and to vacate an alley in that block. The Beatrice Safeway store is planning an expansion.

Ed Wegner, recreational director, appeared before the council to report the first stage of development on Sertoma Playland, a proposed park, has been completed. The Beatrice Sertoma Club has allocated $3,671 for five pieces of playground equipment.

The Sertoma Club will buy the equipment and the city parks and recreation department will maintain and supervise the park. The equipment is to be delivered next March.

Although the city's garbage pickup program was not on the agenda for discussion, council member Allan Henning said the council's special programs committee is meeting with interested parties to find someone to take on the municipal waste pickup.

Two representatives of Beta Sigma Phi sorority appeared to get council approval for erecting welcoming signs on the outskirts of the city.

The council rejected a bid of $190,295.48 submitted by Metro Pavers for paving and installation of a storm sewer. That bid was $50,000 above the city engineer's estimate.

The council tabled a request from Harry D. Gartner for a special permit to build a steel storage building in the city. His application was only partially complete and the council referred it back to the Department of Planning and Zoning.

The council also approved a motion to close a downtown street for the Oct. 10 Moonlight Madness sale.

NFO Asks $10 Million In Aid

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — National Farmers Organization (NFO) members were asked to come up with $10 million Monday to head off an attempt by the Securities and Exchange Commission to place the troubled organization in receivership.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley asked 10,000 NFO members from coast to coast to pay dues, make donations and contribute and forgive loans made to the organization.

The SEC has charged the NFO with fraud and deceit for accepting $8 million in loans from its members without taking in enough dues to repay those loans.

A hearing on the charges is scheduled Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Des Moines.

Staley told the farmers organization, dedicated to collective bargaining, that placing the organization in receivership "would be the end of the organization."

He asked the farmers to show the SEC they had "enough money to meet the challenge."

When asked who had loaned the organization money, half the farmers present raised their hands, and some 40 per cent agreed to cancel loans.

NFO officials said the SEC charges were brought because the federal commission claimed the NFO should have told those farmers who loaned money all the obligations the organization has.

Staley said the purpose of the meeting was to show the SEC "they or no other government agency can take over the NFO."

The SEC claims the NFO has more than $7 million in debt, but NFO officials contend they have more than $42 million in uncollected dues.

Louisiana Jails 'Em

A professional man from Boulder, Colorado, moonlighting in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, this last weekend, was arrested and jailed by local authorities for his extracurricular activities.

His second job? Scalping football tickets, which apparently is a criminal offense in the land of the Bayou Bengals.

Scalping is as old as sport, at least as old as the first successful athletic program, when gates were erected around the arena and people were charged admission, and the number of fans willing to pay exceeded the number of available seats.

The Devaney Years marked the resurgence of scalping at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln. It was noted in Sunday's Journal and Star that scalpers were asking as much as $50 for a pair of tickets to the opening Nebraska-Oregon game. And that was small potatoes compared with the asking price for singles to some conference games in the past 12 years.

There doubtless were some among those who paid the inflated price last Saturday who wished scalping were a crime in Nebraska and that the football profiteer was invited to spend his time in Joe Carroll's hotel rather than his ill-gotten gains in one of Lincoln's drinking establishments.

There Is a Connection

President Ford unveiled his conditional amnesty offer Monday and under ordinary circumstances it would be acceptable to a majority of Americans, if not to whom it applies.

Under the plan, the thousands of young Americans who evaded the draft or deserted the armed services during the Vietnam era can avoid punishment or have their punishment suspended by reaffirming allegiance to the U.S. and performing 24 months of public service — a period which may be reduced if there are "mitigating circumstances."

The offer is about what most people expected, although probably not what either the draft evaders and deserters or the VFW and American Legion had hoped for, the former wanting blanket, unconditional amnesty and much of the membership of the latter opposed to amnesty in any form.

In contemplating a law against scalping, one has to consider the relative futility of enforcing it. We wonder, too, how many people would begrudge the underfunded college student the opportunity to peddle, even though contrary to university policy, his student ticket for extra pocket money? We don't suppose many people are really opposed to that. And if the profit motive were knocked out, there would be a paucity of tickets available in front of the stadium at game time. More than a few people might yelp about that. Success in football poses such knotty problems of economics and ethics.

One of the problems, we think, is that there are some people — non-students — with too many tickets on their hands year after year. Some of these people are buying tickets in order to resell them and make money, not to see football games. The ticket office should review its distribution policy in that regard.

As long as there is a solid football program at Nebraska there will be a premium on tickets. But it is a sad situation when many good Cornhusker fans apply and are denied tickets year after year while scalpers with access to tickets are laughing all the way to the bank.

Had the offer been announced before the 30th day of Ford's presidency, it would have been hailed by many as a fair and humane offer. It still may be, but the situation is colored nevertheless by Ford's pardon of former President Nixon, an unconditional absolution of guilt.

Presidential spokesmen say there is no connection between the pardon of Nixon and conditional amnesty for draft evaders and deserters. But there will be a connection made by those who will be asked to affirm an allegiance and perform public service if they are to avoid the consequences of breaking the law.

And the families of those offered conditional amnesty must be wondering about the equity of the situation.

It surely is cynical, but we can't help but wonder how many cases of plebeitis the clemency board will hear about when mitigation is requested.

ANTHONY LEWIS

BOSTON — The controversy over the pardon has until just now kept attention away from a related matter: The agreement made with Richard Nixon on the handling of the papers and tapes accumulated while he was in the White House. It is an astonishing legal document.

When Nixon left, President

Mr. Nixon Will Hold The Key

Ford and his government had custody of the materials. Nixon had a claim of title in due course, but in the meantime officials could get at the files in the White House as needed for public business.

Now those necessary rights of official control and access have been virtually abandoned. They were given away by those who negotiated the agreement, supposedly on behalf of the United States. Consider these extraordinary provisions:

1. The government agrees to provide secure storage space for the materials near San Clemente, at public expense. But no one can enter the storage area without the personal approval of Nixon, who will have a key "essential for access," given to him "alone as custodian of the materials."

2. Another key will also be needed to get into the area. It will be held by the archivist of the United States, or his designee, but the agreement gives them no clear right to enter the space, not even to watch what Nixon may do there. Any request for access made to the archivist, even by officials, "shall be referred" to Nixon.

3. Nixon agrees to produce items in response to court subpoenas, subject to any claims of privilege he may make. This is of course no concession, since he would have to respond to subpoenas no matter what any agreement said. The limitation of assured official access to what can be gained by subpoena is in fact a severe restriction on the rights of the Watergate special prosecutor. He was originally assured cooperation in access to relevant White House documents without the need for court action.

4. If a subpoena is issued for certain documents or tapes, Nixon would presumably look for them in the files. If he then reports that he cannot find them, there is no provision for an independent search or supervision by any third party.

5. A special provision for the White House tapes says that all of them shall be destroyed at the time of Nixon's death or on Sept. 1, 1984, "whichever event shall first occur." That means that if Nixon were to die next week, the tapes would be destroyed even though some were essential to pending criminal cases. After Sept. 1, 1979, he may order any specific tapes destroyed.

By such provisions Nixon could achieve in disgrace what he could not in office — the frustration of the special prosecution force. For it needs access to the Nixon White House file not only for the forthcoming cover-up prosecution and other cases but for the final report that it must make to Congress.

Some information on the crimes and abuses of power that most deeply concern the public may be found only in those Nixon files. There are, for example, the attempts to misuse the Internal Revenue Service, the secret wiretapping and the activities of the Plumbers. The prosecutors had requests for specific materials pending with the Ford White House when the agreement to give Nixon custody was suddenly sprung on them.

In sum, that agreement on the Nixon files is about as even-handed as one negotiated between victor and vanquished — with the United States in the posture of vanquished. And the way it was arranged is just as scandalous as the terms.

No Justice Department lawyer played any part in the business or even saw the document before it was approved. The negotiator for the United States was a private lawyer of no great reputation, Benton L. Becker, whom Ford happens to know. The special prosecutor's office had made clear that it wanted to be consulted on the terms. It was not.

The agreement took the form of a letter of proposal for Nixon dated Sept. 6. It was signed and accepted the very next day by the administrator of the General Services Administration, Arthur F. Sampson. That is the same Sampson who was appointed by Nixon, who approved the spending of $17 million in government funds at Nixon's houses and who last week told Congress that Nixon should now be given large sums so he "can maintain a creative presence as an advisor in national and international life."

The whole affair raises deep questions about what kind of legal advice Ford has had. But the immediate problem is the agreement. It is one so contemptuous of the national interest, and perhaps even in violation of the law dealing with presidential libraries, that Ford should now declare it void. If the President does not act, Congress has the plain power and duty to vindicate the public interest in these public materials.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How does a thyroid gland affect a person's weight? I am very much underweight and cannot gain, no matter what I eat. I would like to know if an overactive or underactive thyroid could be causing my trouble. I am a man, 68, and have a slight case of diabetes and am on a diet of 2,000 calories a day, but I have lost 15 pounds in the past few months. — H.K.

The thyroid isn't normally a major factor in weight gain or loss, and we usually have to look elsewhere for the cause. In your case it may be that your diet is not sufficient alone to handle your diabetic condition.

If an overactive thyroid were responsible, you would have other symptoms such as nervousness, tremor, ease of perspiration and a fast heart rate. An underactive thyroid causes sluggishness, fatigue, dry skin and a slow pulse.

When is the last time you had a check-up to see how well the diet is keeping your diabetes under control? It could be that you need something else to help you. You could be ready for insulin or some of the oral agents used.

You should report your weight loss immediately and get a new reading on your condition.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on painful tailbone? Would you suggest having it X-rayed? Do you think it could be arthritis? Is it common? — Mrs. D.S.

The term "painful tailbone" may be something of a misnomer. It is painful, to be sure, but the chances are it's not the actual tailbone but the surrounding muscles that are at fault.

The medical term is "coccygodynia," a reference to the fact that the joining of several vertebrae at the base of the spine takes the form of the beak of a cuckoo (coccyx). It is thought to be the vestigial tail in man.

The cause of this common ailment is in most cases poor, slouching posture or the use of uncomfortable chairs over long periods. Secretaries take note. The cure is fortunately often equally simple — finding a good, firm cushion, changes in posture habits, periodic soaking in a hot tub, anything that relaxes the muscles in the area.

The source of the pain is not so much in the coccyx itself as it is spasm of muscles attached to it. Thus, massage of these muscles through the rectum is helpful in most cases.

Such "pampering" usually brings relief while the condition runs its course. The same precautions usually prevent a recurrence.

I doubt that X-rays would tell your doctor any more than he already suspects; however, if there had been in the past a sitting fall, it may reveal a fracture of the bone.

Dear Doctor: My husband has hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure. He is on a low fat, low cholesterol diet. The doctors have told him he is to have no alcohol to drink, but did not explain the effects on his heart if he does drink. — Mrs. S.H.

Normally one drink of whisky or wine probably would not affect him, but more than that could quicken the heart rate or cause an irregularity of rhythm. This is probably what his doctor is attempting to avoid.

The doctor knows his condition. Follow his advice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understood that normal vision is 20/20. I am 76 and have cataracts and dystrophy of the cornea. My vision is 20/70 in one eye and 20/60 in the other. Would you explain what these figures mean? — Mrs. A.P.

The figures mean that you can only see at 20 feet what you should be able to see at 60 or 70 feet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A woman told how this child developed a terrible diaper rash and asked if disposable diapers could cause it. You said you doubted it, but regular changing would help. I am afraid I must disagree. My little boy had the most awful raised blisters until I changed to (a different brand). — Mrs. P.P.

Thank you, and my thanks to others who wrote. I omitted brand names from your letter, but I do want to retract my remark about disposable diapers.

There have been enough letters from others to make it clear that the disposables do cause a diaper rash in some youngsters. Although it doesn't always seem to be the same brand, yet switching to some different brand has been a successful end to the problem in most if not all the cases reported to me.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please tell me in plain English what pyelonephritis is? — S.A.M.

Sure. It means infection in the kidneys and the pelvis of the kidneys (the pelvis being a sort of collecting chamber). It's usually a stubborn sort of infection and not to be trifled with. When you think you have the infection under control that's when you should not get overconfident. Keep on with treatment after you think you have it whipped; otherwise it has an ornery capability of flaring up again.

That's the plainest language I can think of. Let's I sound unduly flippant, I want to emphasize it: kidney infection is a stubborn ailment, and not to be taken lightly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there anything beneficial from using a rocking chair other than the relaxation derived? I recall President Kennedy used one, and I wondered if for a special reason. — T.Y.

I don't know that the President had any special reason — except that he liked it.

Physically, there's probably some small benefit. You usually keep rocking and the gentle muscular action would benefit circulation a bit.

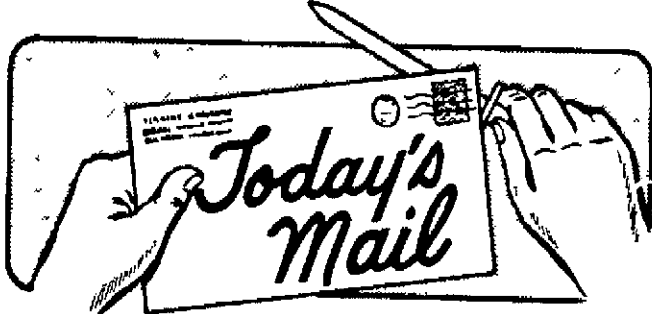

But the main thing you gain is the relaxation. That's not to be sneezed at, as any doctor will tell you after he's spent years seeing patients who were nervously tense.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are water beds safe to sleep on? I have heard that some people get arthritis from sleeping on the water. — Mrs. W.M.

That's another of the silly rumors about water beds. No, they don't cause arthritis.

Against Idea Of Mall

Lincoln, Neb. Well, the city fathers have dug up an old dead horse again, as if the taxpayers aren't now bled to a state of anemia. Yes, they want the longest street in the world cut, our own 60-mile-long O Street.

In The Star of Sept. 16, 1966 many letters were presented protesting the shutting off of parking for shoppers. No more stepping out of a car or bus, but walking blocks to reach stores. Any businessman now as then should realize he is cutting his own throat, driving shoppers out to the new shopping centers where there is even free parking.

Also there is the danger that fire departments and ambulances might be unable to reach the store fronts, while alleys are often blocked. All this could lead to great property damage or loss of life.

The mall would not be the only expense. Side streets would have to be widened to handle the overflow of traffic from O Street.

Let's hope the businessmen again vote out the mall idea. I've been to some metropolitan cities and they didn't have closed streets. They had narrow decorative plants down the center, but O Street is not wide enough for that.

The Hungry Raccoons

Lincoln, Neb. We didn't plant any sweet corn this year because the raccoons tear it down before it's ready to eat. I drove over the east field where the boys had their field corn. I thought I might find a few good ears to eat.

I parked the pickup and went into the field and circled around through several rows. There were no ears on the stalks. Then on the way back, I came upon a row about 50 yards long where every stalk was torn down. I knew raccoons tore corn down but I had never seen where they had torn down every stalk.

I got back into the pickup and drove over to that part of the field protected from the hot south winds by the trees. I went through it and after circling about 100 yards I had only six ears. On the way back, I said aloud: "There isn't enough corn in the whole field to feed an old raccoon and her little ones."

Suddenly I came to another row completely down for 100 yards or so. I started to follow it, looking for tracks. I thought it might be deer. But it hadn't rained since the corn had been cultivated and I could see no tracks, so I kept going.

Lo and behold, I saw a stalk shaking at the far end of the down row. As I got closer, there was the biggest and skinniest raccoon I had ever seen. I walked right up to her and said: "What do you think you're doing there?" And you know the poor old raccoon turned and looked up at me. It was really a sad sight. She had tears in both eyes.

Seeking Out Education

Walton, Neb. Serious dedication to the ideal of self-government made public education essential for the United States. Inconsistent with this goal is the lack of emphasis placed by our schools upon American history since the Civil War. Twentieth Century policies require an historical grasp beyond the "liberty or death" catch phrases that constitute Americans' sense of their past.

While these basics are sufficient to rally support against a president who spies on citizens, they are inadequate for most modern decisions. For these we must know about Panama and dollar diplomacy, which reforms date to TDR and what made them necessary. Two world wars occurred in this century but 90% of us under 30 know little or nothing of what happened — to say nothing of what might have happened instead.

It could be that this general naivety on the part of American citizens contributed to President Nixon's decision not to ask our support while he bombed Cambodia.

In high school we didn't understand the need for history to the extent that we were willing to seek the facts on our own. Yet biology, math, English and lunch-time were handed to us for our own good.

I wonder if more support would have surfaced in favor of excess profits taxes for the oil companies (I read in The Star Saturday of still another $300 million secured by the oil industry through a worldly process known as "double dipping") if the people who attended public schools had been taught that the fantastic profits of World War I were assessed special taxes. Perhaps a parallel would have been drawn between these periods of unusual world stress, both of which resulted in excess, unfair profits for a few.

It is discouraging to ask for education, a first step begun long before now.

The Three Stooges

Lincoln, Neb. We will have three stooges at the helm, guiding our destiny for the next two years, if Rockefeller becomes vice president.

Our appointed President, Mr. Ford (a Rockefeller puppet, as was Nixon), is having a half-million-dollar swimming pool built at the taxpayers' expense — just in case he's in Washington and decides to take a dive. I hope someone keeps tab on how many times he uses the pool in the next two years. There is already a pool beneath the floor in the news room which Ford could use — if he were interested in curbing inflation. The office of president has swelled his head.

Mr. Rockefeller, nominated as vice president, has ruined the State of New York for the working class and taxed them until many have left the state. His welfare policies are horrendous and his handling of Attica a disgrace. His lack of concern for the poor shows a heart of stone.

Then there is Kissinger — imported, hand-groomed in the Rockefeller stables for his present position in Washington. And if we read the hand-writing on the wall, Kissinger will run for president in the near future or be appointed.

Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., introduced a constitutional amendment to eliminate the provision that the president of the United States must be a natural-born citizen. It's a Rockefeller specialty to make Kissinger president.

Let us pray for America, the last land of freedom in the world.

Vote-Getting Gimmick

Lincoln, Neb. One fact may be penetrating the ripped-off rank-and-file taxpayer. This fact may be the "domestic policy" already demonstrated by the vice-president-in-waiting. What's good for the U.S.A. is not imaged by the billionaire.

Consider Rocky's revenue-sharing gimmick when his front man was Ford's predecessor. Mr. Rockefeller used the come-on phrase, "revenue-sharing," to activate what he believes is a vote-getting pork barrel.

Study of revenue-sharing in practice reveals that Paul — political punks — were bought as usual, and Peter — the credit source — was nudged as usual.

Hearing Asked On Steam Heat

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A number of downtown business firms have told the City Council they don't want to be left out in the cold in 1976 when the city terminates its steam-heat service.

In a letter to the lawmakers, attorney J. Taylor Geer called for a public hearing on the Lincoln Electric System (LES) Administrative Board's decision to discontinue steam-heat service from the deteriorating K St. power plant.

That plant provides steam-heat to about 75 downtown merchants, Pershing Municipal Auditorium, Bennett Martin Public Library and the County-City Building. LES announced plans to phase out that service in 1972.

Geer is representing Miller & Paine, National Bank of Commerce, Hovland-Swanson Co., Magee's, Ben Simon & Sons, Hawthorne Realty (owner of the Rudge & Gunzel building), the YWCA, W-K Realty (owner of the Sharp Building), Lincoln Building Corp. and Lincoln Development Co. (owner of the Car-Park Building).

To Be Reconsidered
Councilman Max Denney brought up the subject of Geer's letter during the regular council meeting. The lawmakers took no official action on that request, but said they would consider re-opening the issue, which has become somewhat controversial during the past year.

LES's plan to end steam-heat service has come under fire from the Southeast Chapter of Professional Engineers of Nebraska. The engineers called for another study and have suggested that LES convert solid waste into fuel.

LES board members have pointed out that three engineering studies all concluded it is more economical for steam customers to convert to individual heating systems.

And last July, the City Council hiked steam-heat rates to downtown customers by 55% in an effort to recover some of LES's losses in operating the plant.

LES officials also have pointed out that the K St. power plant may be shut down before 1976 if the Environmental Protection Agency does not grant another six-month variance permit. The permits are allowing the city to continue to burn coal at the plant.

Major Developments
Greer contended that three major developments since the 1972 decision warrant a re-examination.

He said a serious domestic shortage of natural gas and fuel oil means that some of the larger buildings cannot be assured of a continuing supply of gas and oil as an alternative source of fuel.

He said the conversion of solid waste to fuel or the construction of a new power and steam generating plant has now become "proved and feasible."

And third, he said, from an environmental standpoint it would be easier to clean up emissions from one central smokestack than from 75 individual ones.

Greer also questioned whether the city, as a public utility supplier, has the right to stop supplying that energy.

Broader Hearing
Councilwoman Sue Bailey suggested that any hearing on the matter be broadened to include a hearing on the desirability of burning solid waste. Bailey said LES and the city have indicated their willingness to study the matter since money was included in this year's budget for such a study.

City Staff Will Draft Planning Legislation

Lincoln Lawmakers started preparing Monday for the upcoming legislative session by directing staffers to draft possible comprehensive plan legislation.

Councilman Max Denney proposed that legislation be proposed that give primary class city councils authority to approve a comprehensive plan. Lincoln is the only city in the state in which the planning commission approves the plan.

Denney's proposal is not as simple as it first seems, Councilwoman Sue Bailey said. She pointed out that the County Board also would need to approve the plan. She said a procedure needed to be established to govern joint decision-making by the council and county board.

The council then agreed to consider Planning Director Doug Brogden's proposed alternatives to deal with the situation.

Brogden suggested that the council consider:

—having the council, mayor and County Board act as one voting unit.

—having the council act only on that portion of the plan dealing with the city, and the County Board act only on that portion of the plan dealing with rural areas.

—letting the action of the city-county planning commission stand if neither the city nor county acts within 90 days, or if the two elected groups reach an impasse.

—creating a special committee composed of an equal number of council members and county commissioners to approve the plan.

—leaving the state law and city charter as it.

AMC Workers Strike
Production of the 1975 American Motors Corp. cars didn't start on time because 17,000 members of the United Auto Workers struck company plants in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., and Brampton, Ont. No official strike call was issued by the executive committee, which was locked in negotiations with AMC. Pickets here were striking the Milwaukee plant.

Co-Ops Funnel Campaign Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the nation's three biggest dairy cooperatives has been indirectly funneling thousands of dollars into 1974 congressional and state campaigns in six southern states, campaign finance reports show.

The funds have been distributed through recently established state "political activity" committees.

Campaign finance reports on file here show that these committees have thus far been bankrolled exclusively by the Louisville-based Dairymen Inc. and its trust for Special Political Agricultural Community Education (SPACE).

The cooperative set up such committees in Georgia, Virginia, Mississippi, Kentucky, Louisiana and Tennessee, reports show.

Donations by these committees include $2,000 contributions to the Democratic Georgia gubernatorial primary campaigns of both winner George Busbee and his unsuccessful opponent, Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox.

Other reported contributions include gifts ranging up to $5,000 to an assortment of incumbent southern congressmen, including members of congressional committees that oversee bills affecting the dairy industry.

Dairymen Inc. is one of three major farmer-dairy cooperatives which together gave more than $600,000 used in former President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Watergate prosecutors have indicated they are still investigating the possibility that these donations constituted an illegal bribe in connection with Nixon's decision to raise federal milk price supports in March 1971.

The six state "political activities" committees were activated in June by direct transfers into their treasurers of at least $1,000 apiece from the treasury of SPACE.

All six committees listed the same individual — J.E. Mueller of Louisville, Ky. — as "custodian of books and accounts." Mueller is also controller of Dairymen Inc. and a trustee of SPACE. Attempts to reach him by telephone last week were unsuccessful.

Federal campaign spending laws do not prohibit a political action committee from establishing other committees for the purpose of distributing contributions. However, direct pass-throughs to candidates, with the new committees serving merely as fronts, are prohibited by regulations of the House and Senate.

Life Begins At Forty:

Geriatric Set Has Lemons Too

By ROBERT PETERSON

There are probably as many lemons in the geriatric set as there are among youngsters and middle-agers. There may be more it there's any truth to the saying, "The good die young."

One of my favorite letters on this theme came from a man in Texas who documented some disillusioning experiences with elders.

"When I quit working at 65," he wrote us, "I thought it would be nice to befriend oldsters in need. So I kept my ears open and one day heard about an elderly widow who lived in a shabby, ramshackle house. I went over and offered to help her fix up the place. I said I'd supply the labor if she'd supply materials. She was suspicious at first, but went out and bought some shingles and siding and I dutifully brought my ladder and went to work. It soon developed she never had any small change for scrap lumber, hinges, nails, and such, so I had to pay for these out of my own limited income. Worse yet, she started ordering me around and making me feel like a brow-beaten husband. After giving her a week of my free labor she became so bossy and critical I couldn't continue. When I left she didn't even thank me, and later had the gall to tell a neighbor my workmanship was poor."

"Well, I let that pass and a bit later heard about a poor soul in her 80s who was so obese and ugly no one had anything to do with her. I offered to do the marketing for her and run errands. She somehow got the idea I had romance in mind for she'd try to hug me whenever I came in the house. It was so embarrassing I stopped going, but then she started phoning me three or four times a day demanding that I come see her. I finally had to get a private number.

"You'll think I'm making this up, but I swear every word is true. I decided maybe old men were more tractable. So I befriended a retired old gentleman in his 80s who seemed very pleasant at first. He was nearly blind from cataracts and fearful of an operation. So I began alleviating his fears and building up his confidence, telling him how wonderful it would be to regain his sight. I finally persuaded him to have the operation but when the contrary old cuss got the bill and found Medicare didn't cover every penny of it he began accusing me of being in cahoots with the doctors. Then later when the operation proved only marginally successful, he blamed me for all the trouble involved. So I've had it. From now on I'm minding my own business and hoping my obnoxious contemporaries will do the same."

We all know the senior specimens described in this man's letter are not typical. But those of us along in years are sometimes fed so much flattery and soft soap it may be helpful if we're occasionally reminded that we're not all paragons of personality and behavior.

What's middle-age? This period of life has many definitions. Some say it's when you feel on Saturday night the way you used to feel on Monday morning... or it's when your narrow waist and broad mind begin to change places. But in truth it's that great span of years from 20 to 80 when we're in our mature prime and reap our richest satisfactions.

Japan Deficit Rises In August

Tokyo (AP) — The deficit in Japan's over-all payments balance widened to $540 million in August from $210 million in July, the Finance Ministry announced.

The increased deficit was disappointing because July's was the smallest deficit in 17 months and a surplus had been expected for August.

Coupon Cheats Costing Millions

New York (AP) — Dishonest redemption of grocery coupons for food and household products may be costing manufacturers more than $100 million annually, industry officials say.

And they see an alarming rise in coupons being redeemed without a corresponding product purchase.

Among the culprits are the housewife who cashes in coupons for products not on her shopping list and organized rings who "gang-cut" coupons from newspapers and magazines and sell them at a discount to a dishonest grocery store operator.

"It's all the way from petty dishonesty to organized big dollar fraud using the mails and risking federal prosecution of everyone involved all along the line," says George W. Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., a trade association for 180 firms.

"If misredemption doesn't come down the economics will get so bad the manufacturers will have to abandon couponing."

Twelve persons were arrested and 11 convicted in 1973 for use of the mails to fraudulently redeem coupons, according to a spokesman for the mail fraud section of the U.S. Postal Service in Washington, D.C.

The spokesman said the dollar loss was over $400,000, compared to about $60,000 in the previous year.

Some industry experts say that untold millions are lost to manufacturers who aren't ready to abandon what they consider a highly effective device to introduce new products or reacquaint consumers with slow-moving products.

crease over the previous year. They spent about $351 million on redemption of about 2.7 billion coupons. Ten years ago, 350 companies distributed about 10 billion coupons.

An even larger number of "cents-off" coupons were distributed last year by the supermarkets in their own advertisements in newspapers or handbills, usually under a manufacturer-sponsored program.

Misredemption is greatest in the big cities, where manufacturers already are beginning to cut back their promotion of in- ad, retailer-distributed coupons, he said.

The rising cost of food may encourage more consumers to try their hand at misredemption. But some think that any such increase would be canceled out by an equal rise in the number of consumers who would use coupons legitimately to cut their grocery bills.

A spokeswoman for the Gallagher Report, a weekly newsletter for marketing executives, views the increase as

Six Paths Of Dishonesty

New York (AP) — There are many paths to misredemption of grocery coupons, all are dishonest and some can land you in jail. Industry sources say they include:

—A housewife buys $30 worth of groceries and cashes in "cents-off" coupons for a few products that weren't on her shopping list. The checkout clerk accepts the coupons, not bothering to check for a corresponding purchase.

—A dishonest store manager buys a supply of unsold newspapers or magazines that may have $2 worth of coupons in each issue, clips the coupons and redeems them at face value plus three cents for handling.

—A trash collector picks up all the discarded magazines he can find and clips the coupons. He may accumulate $1,000 worth of coupons and sell them for $200 to a grocery store operator.

—A charity group collects coupons and sells them at a discount to a store owner who thinks of the transaction as aiding a worthwhile community cause. He'll get the money and then some back from the manufacturer.

—Three or four individuals "gang-cut" coupons from newspapers and magazines and travel a three-state area selling coupons to any store owner who will buy them.

—A similar "ring" of individuals may establish a phony supermarket postal address and go into the redemption business directly. This is the top of the line of misredemption and usually ends in federal prosecution of the individuals involved.

It's very difficult to put a finger on misredemption," says one researcher. "Nobody admits to it, so how can you survey what nobody admits to."

Industry statistics show that about 10% of coupons distributed are redeemed by retailers, who are paid an additional three cents per coupon for handling.

Some retailers grumble that it costs more to handle the coupons. The handling cost is expected to be boosted to five cents upon completion this fall of a study being conducted for the GMA by Arthur Andersen & Co. of Chicago.

Last year, 970 manufacturers distributed 27.6 billion coupons direct to the public, an 18% increase over the previous year. They spent about $351 million on redemption of about 2.7 billion coupons. Ten years ago, 350 companies distributed about 10 billion coupons.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I was recently married. At the reception, my uncle handed me an envelope. I had no idea it was a check, but I put it in my pocket without looking at it. (There were over 300 people at the reception, and I was busy accepting congratulations.)

Before we started for our honeymoon I opened the envelope and found a handsome check with a four-page letter of advice on how to stay happily married (This uncle and his wife had been married for 34 years.)

On our honeymoon, my wife and I composed what we thought was a very nice letter of thanks, and mailed it to my uncle and aunt.

When we returned home, we found a very angry letter from my uncle ripping me up one side and down the other for not having the "good manners" to have opened the envelope at the reception, announcing his gift and reading his letter. I was shocked!

Abby, had I opened the envelope at the reception, I wouldn't have made such an announcement.

Uncle Wants Recognition

Was I in error? If so, I will apologize.

BEWILDERED NEPHEW

DEAR NEPH: It would have been improper for you to have announced your uncle's gift at the reception and an imposition on your guests. Your "apology" is quite unnecessary; but your publicity-seeking uncle owes you one.

DEAR ABBY: Ours was an office romance. Mert was in accounting and I was a secretary to the president. Maybe opposites do attract, because I'm the vivacious, outgoing, gabby type, and Mert is quiet and more introverted. I had never met a kinder, more thoughtful man.

After three years of marriage, we're having a planned baby in five months. I'm 28 and Mert is 30. Now the problem:

I plan to take a six-month leave from work to have the baby and to return to work when the baby is three months old. Mert is going to quit his office job and stay home to keep house and care for our child. He has a fantastic way with children. I don't. Mert loves cooking and housekeeping. I hate it. Mert finds office work dull and boring. I love it. I've always earned much more than Mert.

Do you think this could work out? Or do you think we're crazy?

REVERSED ROLES

DEAR REVERSED: Why not? If it doesn't, you aren't married to the plan. And no, I don't think you're crazy. I think you are to be envied. Few people have the courage to thumb their noses at the rule of thumb.

Apples Add Fall Flavor

Johnny Appleseed, that heroic planter of apple trees for the early settlers, would have been astonished to see fresh apples in such abundance as they are these early autumn days. And are they!

Apples now are THE buy in the grocery. Why not fit apples into your meals this fall?

They are nutritious and easy for school lunches, good in many salads. As brisk weather turns our tastes to spicy, warm treats apples are a perfect starting point. Serve them in cakes, cookies, pies — or just bake them.

Apple varieties differ widely in appearance, color, flesh characteristics, seasonal availability, and suitability for different uses.

The buyer should select the kind of apples best suited to the use in mind. For eating out-of-hand or other fresh uses, look for Delicious, Jonathan, McIntosh, Stayman, or Winesap — all red varieties or look for Golden Delicious, a yellow variety.

You will want a tart or slightly acid variety for pies and applesauce. Gravenstein and Jonathan, both reds; Grimes Golden, Yellow Transparent, both yellow; or Newtown, a green variety, are best for those uses.

Baked apples make a good fall dessert. For this purpose you will need a firm-fleshed variety of apple. For baking, look for the Northern Spy, Rome Beauty, Winesap, or York Imperial, all red varieties. A green apple, the Rhode Island Greening, is also good for baking.

When buying apples, check for quality. The U.S. Department of Agriculture or similar state grades are sometimes shown on packages of apples.

U.S. Extra Fancy apples are top quality. They have the best color, shape, and general appearance.

U.S. Fancy apples are next best. U.S. No. 1 apples may have less color and more russetting, than U.S. Fancy, or they may have a lacy or solid netting on the skin, but this does not affect the flavor.

When the grade is not given on apples, look for firm, crisp apples with good color for the variety. Avoid overripe apples indicated by a yielding to slight pressure on the skin and soft, mealy flesh) and apples affected by freeze (indicated by internal breakdown and bruised areas). Scald on apples (irregular shaped tan or brown areas) may not seriously affect the eating quality of the apple.

And remember, when you buy apples or any other fresh fruit or vegetable, low price is not always the best buy. Unless the lower price is a result of overabundance of the fruit at the time, a so-called bargain may be undesirable. Buy only the amount of fruit you can use or store without waste.

Apples can be stored in the refrigerator for a week or longer.

Apple Pancakes

- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 1/4 c. milk
- 2 T. liquid shortening
- 2 c. pancake mix
- 1 1/2 c. grated unpeeled apple
- 2 T. sugar
- 2 t. lemon juice

Add egg, milk and shortening to pancake mix; beat until smooth. Stir in apples, sugar and lemon juice. Bake on hot griddle, or in lightly greased skillet, turning to brown both sides. Serve with syrup. Makes about 20 four-inch pancakes.

(For variety, try sausage pancakes: Prepare Apple Pancakes as directed, omitting grated apple, sugar and lemon juice, and adding 2/3 c. diced cooked sausage to the batter.)

Fresh Apple Gingerbread

- 1/2 c. butter or margarine
- 1/4 c. sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2/3 c. molasses

- 2 c. unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 t. baking soda
- 3/4 t. salt
- 1 t. ginger
- 1/2 t. cinnamon
- 1/2 t. nutmeg
- 1/4 t. cloves
- 1 1/4 c. grated pared red or golden delicious apple (1 large apple)
- 1/3 c. milk

Cream together butter and sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Blend in molasses. Mix flour, baking soda, salt and spices; add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Stir in grated apple. Pour into a greased and floured 9x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake in 350 degree F. oven for 45 to 50 minutes, until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan for 10 minutes; turn out onto rack. Serve warm with whipped cream. Makes 9 to 12 servings.

Molded Fresh Apple And Orange Salad

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 c. cold water
- 1 c. fresh orange juice
- 3 T. fresh lemon juice, divided
- 1/4 c. sugar
- 1 c. shredded red delicious apple
- Salad greens
- Red Delicious apple slices
- Fresh orange sections

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until dissolved. Remove from heat. Add orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and sugar. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Shred apples into the remaining 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice and fold into the gelatin. Turn into 2-cup mold. Chill until set. Unmold and garnish with salad greens, apple slices and fresh orange sections. Makes 4 servings.

Raisin-Apple Pie

- 2 lbs. tart cooking apples
- 2 T. lemon juice
- 3/4 c. raisins
- 3/4 c. sugar
- 2 T. all-purpose flour
- 1/2 t. salt
- 1/2 t. ground cinnamon
- Unbaked 9-inch pie shell and lattice top
- 2 T. butter or margarine

Peel, core and slice apples thinly. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Add raisins, dry ingredients and toss to combine. Prepare pastry shell and lattice top. Pour raisin-apple mixture into shell. Dot with butter. Cover with lattice top and crimp edges with a fork. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 40 minutes or until crust is golden.

Baked Apples

- 6 baking apples (Northern Spy, Rome Beauty, Winesap, York Imperial, or Rhode Island Greening)
- 1/2 c. honey or sugar
- 1/2 c. raisins, if desired
- 1/2 t. cinnamon
- 1/2 t. nutmeg
- 1 T. butter or margarine
- 1 c. water

Core apples, without cutting through the bottom end. Peel about one-third of the way down. Place in baking dish. Mix remaining ingredients except fat and water; fill centers of apples. Dot filling with fat. Pour water into baking dish. Bake at 375 degrees F. about 45 to 60 minutes or until apples are tender. If apples seem dry, baste frequently with liquid in pan. After baking, top each apple with a marshmallow, if desired, and return to oven until marshmallows are lightly browned; or top with cream cheese softened with cream or milk and beaten until fluffy.

Fall into the swing of apple season with a relaxed country-style breakfast. The addition of apple and sausage will make a flavorful family meal.

Do Not Iron Velvet!

It is sometimes impossible for a professional drycleaner to restore a velvet that has the nap flattened in wear or careless handling.

Body heat and moisture can cause some pile velvets to flatten and mat. This usually occurs in the underarm, waist and seat areas. Attempts made to remove spilled water, drinks or food by the consumer can also cause pile disturbance.

The best way to handle velvets in the home is to use a hand steamer. But remember to first turn the garment inside out and steam on the wrong side. Do not touch the fabric while it is moist or damp with steam. Never place on an ironing board to press as this permanently flattens the pile.

Velvets are best handled by the professional drycleaner.

SeTech Board To Hear School Offers

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SeTech) Area Board members Tuesday will toe-test the water that could entice a plunge to reshape the Lincoln campus.

The Lincoln Public Schools has offered to sell Whittier or Bryan School or both to SeTech, and college officials have met with architectural firms and school administrators to determine the cost and feasibility of the move.

The board will meet at 1 p.m. in the SeTech Area Office, 2120 S. 56th, Suite 102, to consider the school offer, building anew or authorizing a comprehensive planning study.

Plans Indefinite

SeTech Area President Robert S. Eicher said Monday Lincoln campus plans are "indefinite," while the board facilities committee compiles information for its report.

The board meanwhile decreased the Lincoln campus continuation budget request from $2,494,916 to $2,365,758, after a budget presentation last month left board members disgruntled on its thoroughness and clarity.

The area budget was increased from $557,056 to $598,811, to fund the area audit and provide for part-time instructors in general adult education.

SeTech pared its total continuation request for the Lincoln, Fairbury and Milford campuses from $6,429,180 to $6,341,786 including capital equipment, but no capital construction items. The latter will be submitted to the State Board of Technical Community Colleges later this month.

No Requests Deleted

The State Board Friday recommended SeTech get $5,642,065, excluding capital outlay items, which means that essentially no SeTech fund requests were deleted. The State Board will form recommendations for an equipment replacement policy on a long-term basis.

Eicher said he will propose Tuesday that the SeTech Area Board submit capital construction requests of about $150,000 for Fairbury and about $336,000 for Milford; both are similar to last year's requests.

The proposal at Fairbury includes vacating four old buildings and possibly converting dormitory space to classroom space. At Milford, $280,000 would go for maintenance and meeting fire code standards for ventilation systems, and $56,000 for renovation.

Library Proposed

Milford Campus Director Robert Klabenes has submitted additional proposals for a library and comprehensive media center, requiring about $275,000 largely from federal funds.

The board will review 1975-76 continuation budget requests, increased 16.2% on the Fairbury campus, 18.5% at Milford and 22.8% at Lincoln, excluding capital equipment items.

The board will review 1975-76 continuation budget requests, increased 16.2% on the Fairbury campus, 18.5% at Milford and 22.8% at Lincoln, excluding capital equipment items.

The board will also consider a decision about the future of the Manpower Training Skill Center in Building 1230 Lincoln Air Park.

Federal funding has been phased out for the Manpower program, which Eicher said "will cease to exist as we know it now," separately operated by the SeTech Lincoln campus.

Lease Expires Dec. 1

The program will be continued with Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds through regular Lincoln campus programs. But SeTech's lease on the Air Park building expires Dec. 1, and the board must decide to let the lease lapse or continue it.

Eicher said the Manpower automotive program will probably continue as it is, owing to a Department of Administrative Services request for continued servicing of state cars, which means three staff members would be retained.

Two other Manpower staff members have resigned; the board must decide on continuing contracts for the seven remaining.

Mental Health Program

Also on the agenda is an agreement being formed between SeTech and the Department of Public Institutions to extend the college mental health program to the Lincoln Regional Center, and possibly to Beatrice.

SeTech officials will meet Thursday in Fairbury with U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) representatives to discuss future financial support for Fairbury's money-troubled dormitory.

Past payments on the dorm to HUD were made out of the general fund, which was illegal, according to the terms of the indenture. SeTech made no payment last year and anticipates making none again this year, Eicher said.

Each payment, including interest, is $32,000.

The college doesn't have the necessary money, Eicher said, noting that even if Fairbury dorm occupancy were at capacity, that would not generate enough income to meet the payment.

Dewey Claims No-Fault Divorce Unconstitutional

Ellen Sim Dewey, an unsuccessful candidate for the Legislature from Lincoln, has asked the State Supreme Court to declare the state's no-fault divorce law unconstitutional.

She said the law, which allows one partner to get a divorce upon request, is unconstitutional because it denies due process of law to the other partner.

She also claims, "The right of a party to remain married is a basic and fundamental human right."

Her brief goes on to say,

"There is no constitutional right to a divorce or to a dissolution of marriage, nor a compelling state interest that the state allow a marriage partner who has caused the conflict within marriage to force a divorce upon the spouse who has not caused the conflict."

Robert E. Dewey, 48, was married to Ellen Sim Dewey, 49 in December, 1943. He sued for divorce on June 18, 1971. Since he originally filed for divorce, the no-fault divorce law went into effect, and he was granted a divorce by the Lancaster County District Court.

For Sale: City Hall, Make Offer

Omaha (AP) — Want to buy City Hall?

If so, the city of Omaha is open to all offers.

Mayor Edward Zorinsky said he would like to get rid of the seven story office building when city government moves into the new city county building next year.

"I'd like to get it back on the tax rolls," he said. "I don't think the city belongs in the real estate business. We're open to all offers."

Zorinsky said one tentative offer for the downtown Omaha building was made shortly after he took office last year, but nothing has come of the proposal.

The building was appraised at $600,000 to $650,800, he said, adding that city officials might consider a lower offer if it were part of a project that would yield more taxes.

The city has occupied the building, the former Elks Club quarters, since 1966.

By Guesses, By Gollies Old Windmill Was Rebuilt

Columbus (AP) — One day this summer a friend approached Lawrence Haschke and asked him to rebuild an old windmill.

"I don't know anything about windmills," Haschke told him. But the friend, Bill Gerhold Sr., insisted. He wanted the windmill put up on his farm three miles east of Columbus.

Haschke took a look. He was given parts of a windmill that hadn't been used for 13 years. Only a few scraps of old, weathered wood hung on to the metal parts Gerhold brought him.

Besides, some metal joints were missing. And when he ordered slats for the fans, the planing mill said it was unable to cut notches in the crossbars that held the fans.

"They don't have machinery for that type of work," Haschke said. "Nobody makes windmills anymore."

As he went ahead, he discovered more pieces missing. But the big job was cutting notches in each section, chiseling out the wood and rasping the notches to make them smooth.

Building the 20-foot tower was the easiest part. Haschke built most of it from wood and an area firm built the rest from metal.

Then there was the problem of getting the wheel out of Haschke's garage. It had to be dismantled first.

Eventually the 10-foot wheel was mounted on the metal part of the tower spliced to the wooden tower on Gerhold's property.

In spite of all the "byguesses and bygollies," Haschke completed the windmill, something he said he couldn't do and something very few people would bother to do anymore.

Douglas County Could Auction House Trailers

Omaha (AP) — The Douglas County attorney's office says the owners of 150 mobile homes must pay their taxes by Oct. 15 or the homes will be auctioned for payment.

Deputy County Attorney Bill Ginsberg said his office took some house trailer owner to court last year to collect unpaid taxes, which range from less than $20 to nearly $300 per home. Eventually, $80,000 in back taxes was paid.

He said nearly 600 trailer owners missed the March 1 deadline this year. Each trailer owner received a statement Jan. 1 and postcards told those who missed the March 1 date they were overdue.

Since then, Ginsberg has sent to each of the nonpayers extending their payment deadline to Sept. 3. He said many paid, but the 150 who haven't done so now have until Oct. 15 to pay without an added penalty of between $10 and $100.

After that, he said, the sheriff's department will be authorized by court proceedings to auction the homes.

Cattle Deaths Discussion Set At Broken Bow

Broken Bow (AP) — Cattlemen will meet here Tuesday evening to discuss recent reports of cattle deaths in Nebraska.

Buffalo County Sheriff Vern Newbold said the cause of the deaths has not been resolved. He said they may have been caused by humans, by predators or by disease.

Newbold urged farmers and ranchers to check their fields daily and report any dead animals immediately so that the carcasses can be given post mortem tests within the required 48-hour time limit.

Cattle deaths, have been reported in Custer, Buffalo, Sherman and Dawson counties.

"Offshore drilling is our best source of new oil."

"Maybe so, but it's not worth polluting our beaches. One Santa Barbara is enough."

"I wish I knew what to believe."

"But the chance of a serious oil spill is less than one in a thousand."

OFFSHORE DRILLING:

BLIGHT OR BONANZA?

Off our shores may be enough oil and gas to take care of an important part of America's petroleum needs for many years to come.

Conoco believes we should be developing that resource full speed.

But our governments—federal and state—are holding up exploration in some areas because of concern for the environment. And where governments are ready to move they are frequently stopped by lawsuits brought by environmental groups.

Here are the facts:

Of 18,000 wells drilled off our shores, only four resulted in oil spills of any consequence.

Technology has improved, and the risks of spills are less than ever.

Oil companies currently hold leases on about three percent of America's offshore continental shelf, much of it in the Gulf of Mexico. From these offshore areas we are now getting about 18 percent of domestic oil production.

It usually takes millions of dollars to explore one offshore site; and, if successful, from two to seven years to bring an established field into full production.

Conoco believes that the environmental risks are now so well in hand that the industry should be allowed to step up its search for offshore oil. This is one of the best ways we have to help reach America's goal of near self-sufficiency in energy.

If you'd like to be more informed on both the pros and the cons, write Conoco and we'll send you the following material: a booklet explaining and supporting offshore drilling published by the American Petroleum Institute; and a report of an offshore drilling conference debating both sides of the issue, sponsored by the New York Ocean Science Laboratory.

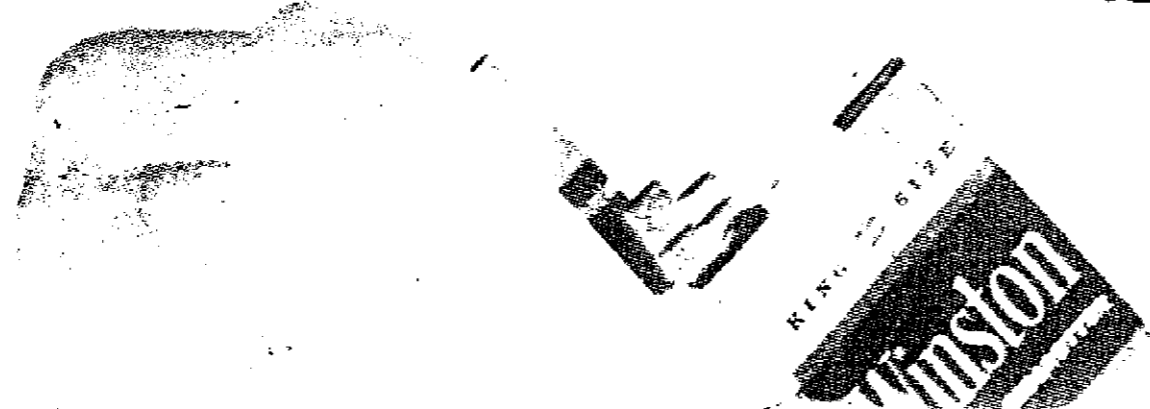

Write Conoco, Dept. B31, GPO Box 29, New York, New York 10001.

Ford For Tighter Rules On Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration proposed Monday that some poor people be required to seek work as a condition of receiving welfare payments.

The tightening of federal welfare rules would apply to the 1.2 million persons registered for the Work Incentive (WIN) program and all future applicants, including the 800,000 whom the government estimates will sign up during the current fiscal year.

A spokeswoman for the National Welfare Rights Organization called the changes "insane at this time."

She said the current job market is so tight that it is almost impossible to find meaningful jobs that would enable the poor to work themselves off welfare.

Unemployment stood at 5.4 per cent of the work force in August and is expected to increase further as the economic slowdown deepens.

Under the proposed changes, registration for the WIN program would be shifted from local welfare offices to state employment service offices.

States also would be given the option of providing "intensive manpower services ... to provide job referrals, labor

Two Scottsbluff Men Victims In Shootout

Scottsbluff (AP) — Two men found dead of bullet wounds here Thursday killed each other, Police Chief James Eckert said Monday.

The fatal victims were Rosario "Roy" Salazar, 31, who lived at the house where the shootings occurred, and James Barnica, 37, also of Scottsbluff.

Eckert said Scotts Bluff County Coroner Marvin Holscher has ruled that Barnica entered Salazar's residence with deliberate and premeditated malice to murder Salazar and that Barnica died by a bullet fired by Salazar in self defense.

The two bodies were found about 3:25 a.m. by Gloria Salazar, widow of Roy, when she arrived home from her night shift job.

Eckert said evidence found in Barnica's home indicated he made detailed plans before the incident including purchase of two guns in Colorado.

Eckert said Salazar woke up when Barnica arrived and during an altercation, Salazar took one of the guns from him.

Four shots were fired from each gun, Eckert said. Barnica was struck once and Salazar four times.

Lancaster Employees Ask Job Class Specifications

Lancaster County employees have asked the county board to furnish job classification specifications for the new personnel system.

In a letter from the Lancaster County Classified Employees Advisory Group notes that the system went into effect July 8, and the employees feel "sufficient time has lapsed" to prepare specifications.

"They (the specifications) should be furnished to employees immediately in order that those who wish to request a hearing on their particular classification will be fully informed of the specifications for each classification," the letter states.

Copies of the letter were sent to Wayne Hart, personnel officer and administrative assistant to the county board; members of the Personnel Policy Board and R.D. Tannehill of the U.S. Civil Service office in St. Louis, who was in charge of the study for Lancaster County.

Feds Bug Talk With Suspects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agents covertly tape-record their own conversations with suspected criminals in more than 1,000 cases a year, the Justice Department disclosed Monday.

Investigators for various agencies rely on so-called "consensual monitoring" far more often than they employ court-authorized wiretaps and bugs to eavesdrop on a suspect's conversations with his associates and innocent callers, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen.

Department guidelines require federal agencies to obtain the approval of Petersen or one of his deputies before undertaking such eavesdropping. Those guidelines were made public as Petersen and Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe testified before the National Commission for the Review of Federal and State Laws Relating to Wiretapping and Electronic Surveillance.

Total NU Fall Enrollment Shows Gain Of 168; UNL Dip Offset

University of Nebraska total preliminary enrollment figures show a gain of 168 students. The total is 26,566, compared to 26,418 a year ago at this time.

The University of Nebraska-Omaha and the NU Medical Center showed gains in enrollment which more than offset the slight decrease at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. UNO gained 432 students, the Medical Center 4 students, and UNL had 268 fewer students, for a net gain of 168.

NU President D. B. Varner said he's pleased with the fall semester preliminary enrollments, noting they "indicate a stabilizing trend."

That, he said, "will make it possible to move ahead with our plans to concentrate on quality factors within the university."

Enrollments reported for 1974-75 (with 1973-74 figures in parentheses) are: UNL, 20,862 (21,160); UNMC, 1,571 (1,567); UNO, 14,123 (13,691).

Power Plant Rehearing Denied

Dan Dorn, state director of environmental control, Monday denied the Sierra Club's request for a rehearing on possible air pollution dangers caused by the controversial 650-megawatt Gerald R. Ford Nuclear Power Station near Sutherland.

Dorn also announced Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD), which will operate the coal-fired plant, has met all state requirements and has been granted a construction permit. The request for the rehearing is seen as a technicality needed before the Sierra Club can take the State Department of Environmental Control (DEC) to court. The Sierra Club wants NPPD to install a scrubber on the $200 million plant to remove sulfur dioxide gases.

NPPD maintains the low-sulfur coal the plant will burn will allow it to meet all sulfur dioxide standards; the plant's precipitator, NPPD says, will remove 99.8% of all fly ash.

A hearing examiner recommended NPPD not receive the go-ahead on construction until a scrubber is included or more coal data is made available.

George Ludwig, former DEC director, overruled the hearing examiner and granted the permit to construct, provided NPPD monitors its stacks and test coal quality prior to shipments.

John Gale of North Platte, Sierra Club attorney, said an appeal would probably go to both Lancaster District Court and Federal District Court in Lincoln.

Demos To Hold Rally, Hog Raffle

A free whole hog raffle will be featured at an old-fashioned rally Sunday for Lancaster County Democrats.

The county-wide rally will be from 2-5 p.m. at the Hidden Valley Golf Course and Club.

Lancaster County Democratic Chairperson Yvonne Hardesty said all county Democratic candidates will be on hand, plus Hess Dyas, first congressional district candidate, and Catherine Dahlquist, candidate for secretary of state.

Hamilton Favors Appointive Offices

County offices, such as assessor, sheriff and engineer, should be appointed if Lancaster County government is to move into the 20th century, H. Bruce Hamilton, candidate for county commissioner, says.

The fact that county offices often go to unopposed candidates suggests to Hamilton that qualified citizens are unwilling to spend the money and time that campaigning demands.

"I commit myself to an in-depth examination of all elected county posts so that special-interest plums can be eliminated in favor of selection by qualification," said Hamilton.

Cast Announced For Wesleyan's 'Dinny, Witches'

Cast members for Nebraska Wesleyan University's first major theatrical production of the 1974-75 season have been announced by director David Clark.

The NWU production of "Dinny and the Witches" is scheduled to run Oct. 4, 5, 11 and 13, on the Enid-Miller Theater stage.

Cast in the major roles of the William Gibson play are seniors Stu Milligan, Denver, Colo.; Ella Ryan, York; and sophomore Diane Roberts, Unadilla.

Making their first appearance on the Miller stage are freshmen Marni Vos, 705 S. 40; and Lyn Bushnell, Alexandria, Va.

Clark says the little known play by Gibson, who also wrote "The Miracle Worker" and "Two for the See Saw," is best described as a fantasy-comedy for adults.

Sale Agreed To

New York (AP) — MacMillan Bledel Ltd., the Canadian paper and pulp company, said it had reached an agreement in principle to sell its 66% interest in Energen, Ltd., of San Diego, Cal., to Industrial American Corp. of Jacksonville, Fla.

Manslaughter To Be Charged

Omaha (AP) — A manslaughter charge will be filed against a man arrested in connection with the fatal shooting of Frederick Black, 52, of Omaha, officials said Monday.

Deputy County Atty. Ed Warren said he would charge Lewis Henry, 53, of Omaha. He said

Henry's wife, Sammie, 45, who also was arrested after the Saturday night shooting, will not be charged.

Police said Black died on a gunshot wound in the back after he became involved in an argument.

Bohlig 'Refutes' Jardine Analysis With Actions

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

For a guy who was called into coach John Jardine's football office at Wisconsin two years ago and flatly told he wasn't good enough to play for the Badgers, quarterback Gregg Bohlig certainly has come a long way.

Now, people are saying a lot of nice things about the 5-11, 172-pound senior from Eau Claire, Wis., who'll be trying for the second year in a row Saturday to engineer an upset victory over Nebraska's Cornhuskers.

"The thing that impressed me mostly about their ball club was their quarterback," Husker freshman coach Jim Ross said Monday night at the Extra Point Club luncheon. Ross scouted the Badgers in their 28-14 opening victory over Purdue.

"Now, we think we have a fine passing quarterback in Dave Humm and a fine running quarterback in Earl Everett, but this kid Bohlig does them both," Ross said. "He's a fine quarterback. He probably could play for most teams in the country."

Jardine, who certainly has to be a little bit red-faced about the incident by now, is happy he was wrong about Bohlig, but still doesn't rank him with the Big Ten's "class" quarterbacks — Dennis Franklin of Michigan, Cornelius Greene of Ohio State and Mitch Anderson of Northwestern.

"Anderson is the best passing quarterback in the Big Ten,"

Jardine said. "Franklin and Green are explosive, they can make the big play time after time."

"But we're not looking for that out of Bohlig. Billy Marek can make the big play. Wide receivers Jeff Mack and Rodney Rhodes can make the big play."

Marek is the outstanding back who hurt Nebraska last year in a narrow 20-16 NU victory. "He was suited up at Purdue and could have played if he was needed," Ross told the Extra Pointers. "The score of the game was 28-14, but Purdue never was in the ball game. They scored twice in the fourth quarter to make it fairly respectable."

Bohlig was No. 2 in total offense in the Big Ten last season, completing 78 of 172 passes for 1,211 yards and eight touchdowns. His total offense was 1,337 yards.

Against Purdue, Bohlig completed 10 of 16 passes for 105 yards and carried the ball seven times for a net of nine yards. He lost 22 yards attempting to pass.

Wisconsin's leading runner was Ron Pollard, a 5-8, 176-pound tailback from Columbus, Ga. Subbing for Marek, he rushed for 72 yards in 20 carries and scored two touchdowns.

Jardine alternated two fullbacks, Kenny Starch, who had 51 yards in 12 tries, and Larry Canada, who had 51 in eight attempts. Split back Selvie Washington, who returned a kickoff 96 yards with 5:09 to play last year to put the Badgers ahead of Nebraska, carried eight times for 49 yards.

Freshman Mike Morgan, called a "very good prospect" from Lane Tech in Chicago, carried just three times for 22 yards and scored one touchdown.

When Jardine talked to Bohlig, it might have been an invitation to give up football, but the young man reacted positively. "It's hard to be told you're not good enough," Bohlig said, recalling Jardine told him he "lacked size and speed and that I hadn't thrown that well as a backup quarterback in 1972 and that I couldn't come up with the big play."

Bohlig said, "When I left that room that day I was really excited. I knew I could prove him wrong."

And he did.

SPORTS Polls Advance Nebraska

Tuesday, Sept. 17, 1974 The Lincoln Star 19

From News Wires

Nebraska advanced to fourth in both of the major wire service ratings while the pollsters disagreed as to the country's top collegiate football team.

After demolishing Oregon, 61-7, last Saturday in Lincoln, Nebraska climbed from seventh to fourth in the Associated Press ratings of sportscasters and sportswriters. The Huskers moved up from sixth in the United Press International rankings of football coaches.

In the AP poll, Nebraska received no first-place votes. Top-ranked Notre Dame had 19 first-place votes, second-rated Ohio State gathered 17 while third-place Oklahoma had 18 votes.

The remainder of the AP ratings showed Alabama (with four first-place nods), Michigan, Louisiana State, Penn State and Texas and Arkansas rounding out the top ten.

Three Big Eight teams received votes, although they did rank in the AP's top twenty.

Kansas, which edged Washington State, 14-7; Missouri, which dropped a 10-0 match at Mississippi, and Oklahoma State, which trampled Wichita State, 59-0, were cited in the AP voting.

Although Notre Dame didn't play last weekend, the Irish (second last week) made it back to the top when Oklahoma slipped in the voters' opinions with a 28-11 victory over lowly Baylor, only a 2-9 team last season.

Ohio State whipped Minnesota, 34-19, and jumped from fourth to second with 998 points, only 6 votes behind Notre Dame.

Nebraska with 728 votes and Oklahoma with 929 votes were the only Big Eight teams in the top 20.

Meanwhile, in the UPI selections, Ohio State solidified its hold on the top spot despite not romping past the Gophers.

The Buckeyes received 24 of the 35 first-place ballots as opposed to only 13 top votes in the preseason ratings. Ohio State was named no lower than third on any of the ballots while accumulating 345 points.

Notre Dame edged past Alabama for the runnerup position, earning 11 first-place votes for 304 points.

The Crimson Tide, which nudged Maryland, 21-16, Saturday, garnered 268 points.

Michigan, which received the other first-place vote, remained fifth in the ratings.

Louisiana State, which opened auspiciously under the direction of its first black quarterback, Carl Otis Trimble, jumped from ninth to sixth on the strength of its 42-14 pounding of Colorado.

The remainder of UPI's top ten included Penn State, Arkansas (which upset previously fourth-ranked Southern California, 22-7 Saturday at Little Rock) and Arizona State, which downed Houston, 30-9 on Sept. 7).

No Big Eight teams were in the second ten.

Humm Receives Citation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nebraska quarterback David Humm didn't get to play even a full half Saturday as the Cornhuskers marked their 1974 football debut—but it was his own fault.

Humm saw action on only seven series against Oregon and directed six scoring drives as seventh-ranked Nebraska headed for a 61-7 pasting of Oregon. By the third quarter Coach Tom Osborne had poured 66 players into the game and Humm was on the bench.

For his efforts, including two touchdown passes and one TD run, Humm was named Monday as Big Eight Conference offensive player of the week. A panel of league writers selected the Las Vegas senior in a split vote over Oklahoma's running back Joe Washington.

Humm, a 6-2, 195-pounder in his third year as a Husker starter, finished with 8 completions in 12 attempts for 139 yards, including scoring strikes of 34 and 36 yards. He now has 32 touchdown passes, tying the career record of Jerry Tagge.

"Dave played very well," Osborne said. "He called a very good game."

Washington, the elusive All-American, rushed for 156 yards in 17 carries as the error-plagued Sooners awoke for a 28-11 victory over lightly regarded Baylor. Washington's nine-yard TD scamper opened a 21-point fourth-quarter barrage. He also totaled 73 yards in kick returns and had a 71-yard kickoff return nullified by a penalty.

Also nominated for the weekly honor were Iowa State fullback Phil Danowsky, Kansas fullback Robert Miller, guard S. L. Stephens of Oklahoma State, tight end Tom Winchel of Kansas State, Colorado fullback Terry Kunz, Nebraska wingback Don Westbrook and Missouri tailback Bill Ziegler.

Sports Signals

By Bob Owens
Star Sports Editor

Fans Are On 'Cloud Nine'

Nebraska football fans are on "Cloud Nine" following the impressive 61-7 victory over Oregon Saturday afternoon in Memorial Stadium and Coach Tom Osborne, speaking from the experience of last season, knows they won't pay a bit of attention to his word of caution about Wisconsin.

"In a way, we've got ourselves right back where we were last year after we beat UCLA," Osborne remarked at Monday's Extra Point Club luncheon. "Football is a funny game. We have to go up to Madison to play a Wisconsin team that gave us a tough game last year. A couple of bad breaks early could make things mighty rough."

Osborne said Wisconsin thinks they have a good enough football team to win this year. He mentioned that athletic director Elroy Hirsch and coach John Jardine have been talking on the banquet circuit telling how they plan to beat Nebraska and that they thought the Cornhuskers were lucky to win last year.

"I don't know what is going to happen at Wisconsin," Osborne said. "This is a game we've been pointing for and we're most concerned about it."

Scout Jim Ross, Husker freshman coach, expressed the same concern. "I know you're not going to believe this, but Wisconsin is a fine football team," he said. "If we're ready to go down there about three-quarters or 80 per cent ready to play we're in for the surprise of our life."

Ross said the 1974 Wisconsin team is much better than the one a year ago and "as you know we were fortunate to get by last year."

Jury Still Out on NU Defense

Nebraska went into the Oregon game with defense as the unknown quantity and Osborne said "I'm not sure we still don't feel that way" because Oregon didn't have a very good or very experienced offensive line.

"Most of the defensive credit goes to the middle guard, the tackles and the defensive ends," Osborne said. "Because the linebackers and secondary really didn't get involved with Oregon ball carriers. The staff still doesn't know whether we played that well or Oregon that poor."

Then he said, "The indication is we have some very good people on defense." He added, "John Lee did well for a first game. He can be a great middle guard. Mike Fultz has great tools and Ron Pruitt is proven. The two defensive ends (Bob Martin and Tom Tate) played very well."

Offensively, in a bit of a surprise, Osborne said the second line graded out better than the first unit, but he said they were in after the Oregon defense had an "awful lot of wind taken out of its sails."

Quarterback Dave Humm was almost perfect, Osborne said. "He called most of the plays, automatic well (changed plays at the line of scrimmage), threw well and faked well."

A good situation is developing at all three of the other backfield positions. Depth is much better than anyone dreamed it would be.

"Fullback is a position where at the start of fall practice we didn't know whether we had anybody behind Tony Davis," Osborne said. "Now we think it's working out pretty good." That comment drew chuckles from the fans because it might have been the understatement of the season.

"Davis wasn't spectacular against Oregon, but he played well," the coach said. "Monte Anthony and Gary Higgs are all even behind Tony." Anthony's good work on the specialty teams probably will earn him a spot on the travel squad. Osborne called Higgs' 17-yard run for the final touchdown "one of the finer runs I've seen in the last six years."

The margin between the first three 1-backs is very small. These are John O'Leary, Jeff Moran and Dave Gillespie.

Husker Grid Notes

Nebraska's game against Wisconsin will start at 12:50 p.m., Lincoln time, because of the regional telecast. Actual telecast will begin at 12:30 p.m. with Keith Jackson, Duffy Daugherty and Jim Lampley doing the commentary.

According to Don McGuire, sports publicist for the ABC network, the game will be one of the largest regional television games ever, being shown in 32 states. "It'll almost be a national game," McGuire said.

Here are the states where it will be shown in addition to Wisconsin and Nebraska: North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, portions of Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma, Tennessee and South Carolina.

And interesting statistic: At the end of the third quarter last Saturday, Oregon had a net of only 20 yards rushing. The Ducks got "rich" in the fourth quarter against reserves by netting 36 in the last 15 minutes.

Possession of the ball is supposed to be important in football, but the Cornhuskers had it for only 26:22 of the 60 minutes Saturday. On their first four touchdowns, total time required was a mere 7:30.

Nebraska converted third and fourth downs into the needed yards for first downs nine out of 13 chances while Oregon clicked just three times in 16 similar situations.

A disappointed George Foreman discusses injury that led to postponement of his title fight against Muhammad Ali.

Injury To Foreman Delays Bout With Ali

N'SELE, Zaire (AP) — A postponement of at least one week in the scheduled Sept. 25 world heavyweight championship fight between George Foreman and Muhammad Ali was ordered on Monday after Foreman suffered a freak cut over his right eye in a sparring session.

In New York, Video Techniques, promoters of what is to be the richest fight ever, announced a postponement of between one week and 30 days because of the horizontal, one-inch gash Foreman suffered between his right eye and eyebrow in a Monday afternoon training session.

Davis Berman, a spokesman for Video Techniques, said in New York:

"The final date will be announced as soon as all the parties involved have agreed to the new date. We are awaiting further advice from the government of Zaire, which is on the scene evaluating the seriousness of the cut and the medical situation."

There was no way to tell immediately what effect the postponement would have on the elaborate and detailed plans which have already been made for the closed circuit showing of the fight. There was also no immediate announcement in Zaire of what new dates were being considered for the fight.

But it had already become clear here that Foreman's handlers, including manager Dick Sadler, were against having their man meet Ali on the scheduled date.

Sadler, Zaire officials and representatives of Video Techniques, the fight promoters, met Monday night to discuss what to do. The decision to postpone the fight was made after the meeting, although it could not be learned immediately how vigorously the government of Zaire had opposed the move.

But it was obvious the government wanted the fight to come off on the scheduled date.

Following the Monday night meeting, Sadler told one of Ali's representatives: "George needs time to heal. I'd be taking too great a risk to rush it, so I'm asking for a postponement."

Don King, co-promoter of the fight along with Video Techniques, met with Foreman Monday night and said, "No definite decisions have been made." That was only an hour before the postponement decision was announced.

There were conflicting versions of the injury's seriousness. The Zaire government, which has made heavy investments in the fight as a showcase of the importance and competence of the country, tended to minimize the gravity of the injury.

Bula Mandungu, president of the Zaire Title Fight Commission, said, "I think they've dramatized it. Americans tend to do that. We're going to wait a few days and see what shape George is in. Things are not so serious."

York's Class B football team had a point to prove last weekend against David City. The Dukes wanted to show that their season-opening win at Lexington was no fluke.

"Quite a few people preferred to say Lexington gave us the game with six fumbles. Well, I feel we caused those breaks," says first-year York coach Tom McClelland.

After snapping Lexington's state-leading win streak at 25 games, York felt the need to remove any skepticism.

A convincing 33-14 Central 10 Conference win over David City accomplished just that. York used 45 players and dominated the contest from start to finish.

The impressive wins earn the Dukes the No. 3 Sunday Journal and Star Class B rating behind top-ranked Ord and second-ranked Wayne. Alliance and Lincoln Plus X round out the top five.

The Badgers watched film of the game, and then held a light 45-minute workout without pads.

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Second-year quarterback Joe Ferguson's 12-yard touchdown pass to Ahmad Rashad with 26 seconds to go—the third touchdown in a wild final two minutes—gave the Buffalo Bills a 21-20 victory over the Oakland Raiders in their nationally-televised NFL opener Monday night.

Raymond Central, which competes in the predominantly Class B Capitol Conference, earns Class C's top spot in the first week ratings. Grant and Scribner rank 2-3.

York's status among Class B's powers "has people around here really high. They're rallying behind the program," according to McClelland, who was an assistant coach at Lincoln High after playing in the defensive backfield for Nebraska's 1971 national championship football team.

According to McClelland, about 200 fans followed the Dukes to Lexington and more than a thousand watched the win over David City.

"I don't think they're fair-weather fans. They seem to be really enthused and like what they see," observes McClelland. York fans were particularly impressed with 6-2, 190-pound junior fullback Kim Baker in last weekend's win over David City.

He rushed for 177 yards on only 10 carries in three quarters and dashed for touchdowns of 73

Buffalo Topples Oakland

With six seconds left, Oakland veteran George Blanda attempted a 50-yard field goal but the kick was short and wide to the right.

The Bills appeared to have won the game with 1:56 to go when Ferguson threw eight yards to Rashad for a touchdown—only to have Oakland go ahead 20-14 just 42 seconds later when Art Thoms picked up a fumble by the Bills' Jim Braxton and carried it 29 yards for a touchdown.

But Buffalo drove right back—aided by two pass interference calls against Oakland—to score the winning TD.

Morning Briefing

A Roundup of Sports News

FOOTBALL

Minnesota Vikings defensive back Bobby Bryant broke his arm late in the last quarter of the Green Bay game Sunday, a team spokesman said. Coach Bud Grant said Bryant would be out for at least three weeks.

Rookie Jackie Wallace will be starting at cornerback Sunday in place of Bryant in the Vikings-Detroit Lions game.

Chicago Bears' coach Abe Gribbon was admitted to Illinois Masonic Hospital Sunday, to be treated for thrombophlebitis. He was listed in satisfactory condition today.

Former Cleveland Browns standout Leroy Kelly was expected to join the Chicago Fire of the World Football League, one day after the team learned it lost the services of top WFL rushing and pass receiving leaders, Mark Kellar and James Scott.

According to UPI sources, for Chicago linebacker Dick Butkus said Monday that he wanted to take a chance and get back into the game as soon as possible.

"There's a slim chance I can play, but I'll be taking a chance if I get hurt again," Butkus said.

A 20-year-old San Diego State lineman died suddenly while recovering from knee surgery. Joe Ferrara, injured three weeks ago during a scrimmage, underwent what the surgeon described as a routine operation Friday. He died Saturday.

Defensive tackle Rick Howe is listed as a doubtful starter for Iowa State in Saturday's non-conference game at the University of Washington. Howe suffered a severely sprained ankle in last Saturday night's 24-3 loss at Texas Tech.

BASKETBALL

The Portland Trail Blazers of the NBA Monday traded 6-foot-9 center Rick Roberson to New Orleans for 6-6 forward Barry Clemens, plus a second-round draft pick and a substantial amount of money.

Portland still has three centers, including no. 1 draft pick Bill Walton of UCLA.

Jim McMillan, a 6-5 forward, was named team captain of the Buffalo Braves of the NBA today.

The Phoenix Suns have traded veteran center Neal Walk and a second-round 1975 draft pick to New Orleans for three NBA players and a first-round 1976 selection, general manager Jerry Colangelo announced.

Phoenix obtained Jazz players Curtis Perry, a 6-foot-7, forward, Dennis Awtry, a 6-10 center and Nate Hawthorne, a 6-4 guard.

Wichita State's basketball team was placed on two years probation Monday by the NCAA's committee on infractions in accordance with a previous action by the Missouri Valley Conference.

Wichita State was judged guilty on nine violations of the NCAA constitution and by-laws, including the falsification of a high school transcript for a prospective athlete, illegal financial assistance and various recruiting irregularities.

OTHER SPORTS

Dodger Pitcher Tommy John will undergo surgery on his left elbow and will be lost for the remainder of the season.

The Baltimore Orioles have purchased the contract of veteran outfielder Jim Northrup from the Montreal Expos in a straight cash deal, the American League team announced.

World light-heavyweight boxing champ Bob Foster, 34, retired Monday after 14 successful title defenses, eclipsing Archie Moore's record of 11 successful title defenses.

Minnesota Twins President Calvin Griffith announced Monday that he had rehired Manager Frank Quilici for the 1975 season.

Luck, Ability Needed To Bowl '300' Game

By Tom Vint

Outdoor Writer

It takes a certain amount of skill to bowl a 300 game, folks will tell you, but anyone who has done it can also say it takes a good deal of luck.

Being an alert, objective sports writer, I've always wanted to get the story inside the story on anything. Every reporter does. Sunday I fell into such a situation. I bowled my first 300 game ever.

Having been around bowling and bowled for 13 years, I had begun to believe I'd never see a 300 game. Roger Heffelfinger helped me out four weeks ago, also during the Sunday Morning Classic League at Plaza Bowl.

Roger tossed his perfect game the first game of the season with a new ball and the first time he'd bowled as a regular in league at Plaza. Roger was a good interview, helpful, talkative.

But it still wasn't the inside story so I thought I'd like to bowl my own 300 to see what these guys fall to mention. (Hat) Friends, it ain't that easy.

The semifinals are set for Wednesday with the finals on Thursday.

181 and 192, having thrown a number of split balls and missed spares. I hoped for a change in the action or my teammates would throw me out of the lanes.

My father, and bowling coach, had always drilled into me, he'd rather be lucky than good — he carries a 190 average most of the time. Now I know what he means.

I started the third game like I knew what I was doing. I threw the first 10 strikes of the perfect game almost like they were supposed to look — in the one-three pocket.

I had thrown 10 strikes to start off a game once before — about 100 years ago in another time and place — only to leave a sound 10-pin on a pocket hit to end with a 289.

With that 10 pin in mind, my knees beginning to melt and my eyeballs fuzzy from straining to see my spot on the alley, I wobbled to the line for the 11th shot. And I promptly dropped my ball behind the foul line.

Somehow I had the ball headed in the right direction, it even rolled over my spot and got enough of the pocket to shake the pins up for strike No. 11.

Now I had a headache — a feeling accompanying one's first attempt at a 300 and being certain of nearly blowing the chance with one bad ball.

Following that strike, I felt like turning to the group now assembling behind me, if anyone knew a good joke. I don't think but could have used one then. I wanted to go home to talk it over with my hunting dog.

I kept saying to myself, "Who are you kidding. You're an outdoor writer, not a bowler. Besides, you're not this good."

Then I thought, "the baby's going to have clothes." My wife is expecting and Plaza Bowl awards $300 to anyone bowling a perfect game.

My hand was sweaty. My thumb hurt. I had a headache. I wanted to go home, but there were too many people around to just up and leave. I'd heard of a guy who had thrown 11 strikes only to pick up his ball and leave. I knew how he felt.

After swallowing my tongue, taking 16 deep breaths (a relaxation technique which made me dizzy), having looked around for something to help me brace up my uncertain knees and finding nothing, I again wobbled to the line.

I wasn't even sure I started on the right foot as I saw my ball drift almost a full board outside the spot I had taken aim on. The ball made up its own mind, however, and caught enough of the head pin to shake things up a bit.

I nearly collapsed when I saw a seven-pin standing in the corner. Somebody up there likes me. A pin rolled across the lane and nudged the seven over just as the rack came down and I had MY 300!

I knew it wasn't real. I was dreaming, at least until somebody slapped me with congratulations to wake me up.

The inside story was finally mine. Bowling a 300 game can be summed up in one brief paragraph.

A perfect game is the ultimate. It's a super feeling to know your knees can take it, to beat the odds, and thrill onlookers, as well as yourself.

An egotist would say it was nothing. Some bowlers might even claim there was no special thrill involved. I'll say thanks to the Big Bowling Coach in the sky, and to my father back in Iowa, "I, too, would rather be lucky than good."

Pioneer KU Coach Allen Dies

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, one of the winningest coaches in college basketball history during his 39 years at the University of Kansas, died at his home Monday.

Allen, 88, had compiled a 591-219 record at Kansas by 1956, when the mandatory retirement age of 70 forced him out of coaching and put him into a category he called "statutory senility."

Allen guided Kansas teams from 1908 to 1909 and from 1920 through 1956. Over a career that spanned 49 years and 771 victories, he also coached seven years at Central Missouri State, two at Baker University in Kansas and one at Haskell Indian Institute (now Haskell Indian Junior College.)

His record of victories stood until 1968, when Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, one of Allen's former pupils, broke it.

New York, Montreal Split Pair

By United Press International

Rusty Staub homered and Wayne Garrett drove in two runs in the fifth inning of the second game Monday night as the New York Mets defeated the Montreal Expos 3-2 after dropping the opener by an identical 3-2 score.

The victory for the Mets in the second game stopped Montreal's eight-game winning streak.

Staub led off the fifth inning by driving his 17th home run of the season over the rightfield fence. Ed Kranepool followed with a double and then, following two-out walks to Ron Hodges and Randy Sterling — the winning pitcher in his first major league appearance — Garrett singled to score Kranepool and Hodges.

The Expos got both their runs in the sixth inning. Sterling hit rookie Larry Parrish with a pitch and Willie Davis hit a pinch-hit single. Larry Lintz sacrificed the runners to second and third. Tim Foli hit a sacrifice fly to score Parrish, and Mike Jorgensen singled to score Davis.

Dan Driessen and Cesar Geronimo hit bases-empty homers in the third inning to lead a 13-hit attack that carried the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

The victory kept the second place Reds within 2½ games of first place Los Angeles in the National League West.

Kirby checked the Padres on seven hits over the first eight innings before Rawly Eastwood pitched the ninth.

Big 8 Coaches Wary Of Overconfidence

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Big Eight Conference football coaches, winners and losers alike, were reluctant Monday to sound too optimistic after viewing films of the season openers. Don Fambrough might have supplied the reason.

"You can't tell anything about these first games," the Kansas coach said.

"We were really pleasantly surprised at the ease with which we beat Oregon," said Tom Osborne, whose seventh-ranked Nebraska charges blistered the Ducks, 61-7.

"We made a jillion mistakes," said Oklahoma State assistant Don Boyce, who subbed for Jim Stanley in the weekly interview by amplified telephone. "We've got to play a lot better than we did last week" in the 50-0 romp over Wichita State.

"We played good at times and bad at times," Kansas State's Vince Gibson said of the Wildcats' 31-14 decision over Tulsa.

"The frustrating thing is we moved the ball against Baylor better than last year and scored fewer points," noted Oklahoma boss Barry Switzer, who indicated the Sooners may make at least one major defensive change.

On the losing side, Missouri Coach Al Onofrio found that the "over-all defense did a good job of containing Mississippi," but the Tigers failed to supply the offensive punch in a 10-0 loss to the Rebels.

Iowa State, a 24-3 victim of Texas Tech, let the Southwest Conference team get ahead early and "we couldn't play catch-up football after that," said Coach Earle Bruce. "We didn't stop them on the third-and-long situations and we broke down on third and short."

Colorado mentor Bill Mallory said the Buffs failed to take advantage of their first-quarter domination against Louisiana State, blew at least two good scoring opportunities and then fell behind when LSU broke quick touchdown plays en route to a 42-14 victory.

"They got on top of us and we couldn't get out of it," Mallory summarized.

Switzer said he was not disappointed in his offense after watching the films, although continued mistakes through the first three quarters nullified numerous scoring opportunities.

"My gosh, we get 300 yards total offense and we can't score," said Switzer, who discounted any pressure from being the nation's top-ranked team going into the game. For instance, "Being number one didn't have anything to do with Joe Washington fumbling on the one-yard line."

But the Sooners coach said he was not satisfied about the defense and will spend some time making personnel changes while OU has the week off. One change apparently will be at noseguard, and standout junior tackle Dewey Selmon may be the one switched.

Switzer said "the noseguard position made only one tackle all day" although two players were tried at the position. He said Selmon, whose brother, LeRoy, mans the other DT slot, played noseguard as a freshman and "he's a natural to go in there."

Oklahoma State already has decided on one change, said Boyce, the Cowboys' offensive coordinator. For reasons of additional speed and quickness, newcomer Robert Turner has been moved ahead of veteran George Palmer at fullback.

Boyce said both would see considerable action. Asked if Palmer is still the starter, Boyce said, "not at this time." The OSU assistant also praised the play of new quarterback Charlie Weatherbie, but had a warning for him.

"He's improved quite a bit since we started two-a-days," Boyce said of Weatherbie. "He better keep it up because he's got two young men pushing him, Scott Burk and Jimmy Derrick."

Colorado's Mallory, describing his club as "just not grooved yet," said "interiorwise, the defense didn't do too badly. Where we got hurt was on the perimeter. The big plays occurred to the outside."

He said correcting the problem may be hampered by three injuries in the secondary, to safeties Jerry Martinez (pinched nerve) and Bobby Morris (vertebrae problems) and halfback Tommy Hilton (strained knee).

Fambrough said he was encouraged by the play of his rebuilt offensive line and the throwing of Scott McMichael, who replaced graduated All-American David Jaynes at quarterback. KU stopped Washington State, 14-7.

"Scott showed a lot of poise. He had a couple of plays where he made the right choice. But I was especially pleased with the way he threw the ball" against Washington State's double coverage.

Onofrio said he has no big changes planned because "we don't know yet how our new people are going to function."

Bruce said the Iowa State defense got better in the later stages against Texas Tech but "we knew it had to." The only Cyclone injury of consequence was to senior defensive tackle and cocaptain Rick Howe, listed as doubtful for practice this week with a sprained ankle.

Despite the Kansas State mistakes that bothered Gibson, he said "we've got the kids to do the job. They just didn't play very well. But I'm not down on 'em—they can play and they will."

NBA Kings Sign Three Players

Kansas City (AP)—Three more players signed contracts with the Kansas City-Omaha Kings of the National Basketball Association, who open their training camp Thursday, the team announced Monday.

They are Ron Kennedy, 6-foot-11 center from Arizona State; Jerry Crocker, 6-3 guard from Guilford and Charles Hall, 6-4 guard from Western Montana.

Kennedy is the third center in the Kings' camp. The others are veteran Sam Lacey and Len Kosmalka, a 7-footer from the University of Tennessee who was the Kings' No. 2 draft choice.

Colorado Defense Suffering

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Defensive halfback Tom Hilton, a starter for the Colorado Buffs Saturday night against Louisiana State University, and both safeties, Jerry Martinez and backup Bobby Morris are unlikely to see action against Michigan this week, Coach Bill Mallory said Monday.

Mallory and the Buffs, who lost to the Tigers 42-14 at Baton Rouge, spent Monday afternoon watching films of Michigan's 24-7 victory over Iowa, and also of their own losing effort.

Mallory said Hilton twisted a knee and Martinez and Morris both have pinched nerves after the LSU game.

The coach said sophomore Tom Tesone will probably move to safety against Michigan and a junior college transfer, Mike McCoy will go to Hilton's halfback spot.

Greg Westbrooks, a 6-4, 219-pound senior tri-captain, may be back on duty as a defensive back if an ankle shows good recovery.

The Saturday game at Ann Arbor's Michigan Stadium will mark the first meeting of the two teams and a crowd of about 83,000 is expected.

Courageous Swamps Aussies In Races

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Australian land developer Alan Bond's $9 million dream of ending the New York Yacht Club's 123-year grip on the America's Cup floundered Monday as Courageous scored a devastating third straight victory over the Southern Cross.

Courageous, the 22nd Cup defender, beat the yellow-hulled challenger over the 24.3-mile Olympic course by 5 minutes and 27 seconds, the widest margin in the three races to date.

While still possible, it was highly unlikely the effort Bond started in 1970 could take four straight races to emerge the winner in the best-of-seven series after successive losses in light and moderate air off Rhode Island Sound.

The fourth and possibly final race of the series was set for Tuesday. Shortly after Monday's race, both boats hoisted flags indicating they were willing to sail without a lay day.

The race was sailed under freshening west-northwest winds in sunshine, a distinct change from Saturday when the contest was aborted as the 5½-hour time limit expired with Courageous leading the Cross by almost a half mile. Fog killed an effort to race Friday.

Both 12-meter yachts crossed the starting line before the gun in Monday's third race and were forced to circle around and restart. Courageous beat the Aussie boat across the line by 16 seconds and boosted that advantage to 43 seconds rounding the first mark.

It was her biggest advantage on that 4.5-mile leg since the series began with the later times closely paralleling last Tuesday's first race where Courageous was a 4:56 victor.

The lead increased to 1:25 at the second mark, the gain coming as Courageous hoisted her huge red-topped spinnaker to capture 10-12 knot winds on the first of two consecutive reaching legs off the wind.

At the third mark the lead was 1:16. The wind dropped to 6-9 knots and Cross apparently made a better pick from her load of light-air spinnaker sails.

Courageous expanded her lead to 2:52 from the second windward leg, the wind freshening to 14 knots and up as she rounded the fourth mark.

Moving downwind for the only time during the six-leg race the Olin Stephens-designed defender picked up another 40 seconds as Southern Cross made the final turn around the America's Cup buoy trailing by 3:32.

On the final leg, sailing into the wind for the third time, Courageous widened her lead to the final time of 5:27. Because of a slight wind shift the race committee moved the course 10 degrees towards north on that final leg.

SALE GOOD THRU SATURDAY Sept. 14

San Francisco — "Oh, well do I remember the bleak December day."

"The landlord and the Sheriff came to drive us all away..." I said to the moppets: "Hitch up the wagons! We're moving West!" The owners of our scatter at Snug Harbor have decided to sell them as condominiums. Some kind of dodgy tax thing.

Pay up or get out. I said: "Hold the rents, Irishmen! For the honor of them fighting for you in the hills!"

The Silver Fox must find a new den.

Winter will come earlier and be colder say the weather soothsayers. There's some bloke in New England figures the coming winter by the rings on the woolly bear caterpillar.

The wider the rings — (like the stripes on your pajamas) — the colder the frosty season.

Haven't heard from the fellow yet. He usually surfaces around this time. Until I hear from him, I won't put in my order for long underwear.

I went to the supermarket and got a bag of groceries. I gave the checker a twenty.

He said: "Do you have any pennies?"

When I said no, he gave me a nickel and two lollipops.

I said: "Man, that bag doesn't look like $19.93 to me. It looks like about $10."

He said: "It's not me that's boosting prices. It's inflation."

I said to the children: "Fetch me the cooking sherry. We're all going to the poorhouse."

In Washington, the President brought in 20 of the best economists in the nation. Every one had a brain that ticked like a Swiss watch.

When they got through, a sack of groceries still cost $19.93.

I think my government ought to give me clearer answers.

Painters swarmed all over Snug Harbor. They painted the outside. They painted insides. And in some they installed fresh wall-to-wall carpets.

I said to the children: "Wait until the cat who buys this place finds out how the roof leaks. Maybe I can sell him the big dishpan I put under it."

I said: "I'll put a curse on the place by the stones of Kilmooen."

This is a fearful curse — though well thought of in Ireland.

I said: "It's perfectly proper. For it was St. Patrick himself cursed the man who stole his goat to make the skin into a drum."

I think turning homes into condominiums has something to do with "capital gains." Or "improving the cash position."

"It's language like that keeps me from knowing what's going on," I said.

"Now to put on the curse, you must kneel on sharp stones. The more uncomfortable it is, the stronger the curse."

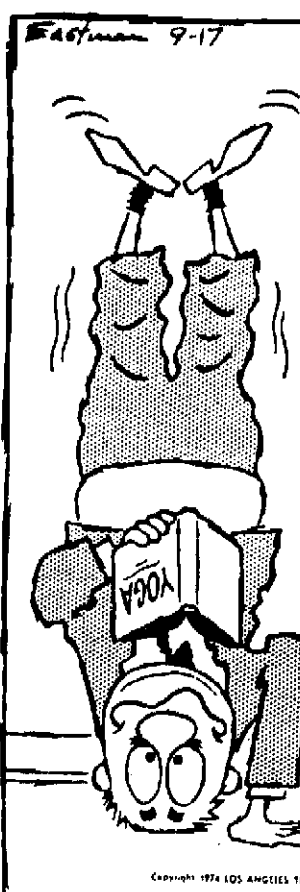

"You curse them root and branch. Unto three generations. That they perish by sword and fire and free rope. Then they're done for."

I got out the guitar and sang: "Go sell the pig and cow, aghra, to take you far away..."

(The children said: "The Cap'n's been at the Irish whiskey today. He'll be under full sail by nightfall.")

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast for Tuesday

Aries who "loved" astrology: Jayne Mansfield, Cancer who has a "feel" for the subject: Mary Griffin. Pisces who understands: Anais Nin, Capricorn who perceives: Henry Miller, the one who elevated astrology: Carl Jung, Scorpio who "knew" his horoscope: Theodore Roosevelt, Cancer who was startled by his chart: Milton Berle. Aries who accepts: Betty Davis. Aquarius who benefited: Kim Novak.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Structure may not be solid — you need to do some reinforcing. Go over details. Be specific and obtain specifics. Reject the superficial. You have a right to complete access to pertinent information.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Emotional responses can oppose logic. Know if and how to diplomatically insist, cajole or attempt to force any issue. Accept is on change of venue, a reassessment of goals. Taurus, Libra partners figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Element of confusion is present. Define terms. Refine techniques. Be sure you are accurately quoted. Avoid trying too much at once. Relatives, close neighbors may be involved. Emphasis is on short trip connoisseurs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Financial matters are not what they seem to be. Yoda! You have a right to know. It might be apparent on surface. Know it and assume responsibility. Capricorn, Cancer persons might be in picture. Investment and collection — these are featured.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You get nothing for nothing — and you also may find that what was supposed to be is really finished. Cliche is high and you lend on your feet following some financial bond. Invest in it, or value — it's money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You can get behind the curtain. Call shots. Means what was hidden or obscured becomes available — for your eyes only. You are trusted with a special responsibility. Sense of discretion is put to severe test.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends are close. Key is to know when to listen seriously, when to laugh and when to walk away. Member of opposite sex wants to be placated, consoled and flattered. Maintain self-control. Don't become a crying towel. Let others know that you value your time and opinions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis is on constructive ability to present your case in manner which gains popular support. Gemini, Cancer and Sagittarius individuals are in picture. Friends who may mean well, but do best by going away for a time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You will be remedied, reconstructing, getting in touch with persons at a distance. You also will be intrigued with language and travel. Another Aquarian, a Scorpio, Taurus and Leo figure prominently. Your personal philosophy is put to test — and emerges strong.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): One who convinces — means gather material and get it in presentable form. Gemini, Virgo persons are in picture. You may find that escrow is "fired up" that cash flow has temporarily been disrupted.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have executive ability, particular, responsible, capable organizing and good when it comes to money management. June was important — change comes in December — many graves to you are born under Capricorn and Cancer. You are a direct, dynamic, powerful person who keeps something for proverbial "rainy day."

Markets At A Glance

New York (AP) — The stock market picked itself up off the floor long enough to post some good-sized technical gains Monday in the heaviest trading in more than three months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 12.59 to 639.78, reflecting the particularly strong performance of many of the high-priced blue-chip and growth issues.

The over-all advance was less pronounced, with gainers narrowly edging out losers 746 to 690 among the 1,822 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The day's turnover on the Big Board of 18.37 million shares was the busiest since June 7, when 19.02 million shares changed hands near the peak of a strong but short-lived rally that gave way to a long summer of sharp declines.

The setting for Monday's gain was much the same as it had been in that early June upswing — technical forces within the market exerting much of the upward force, with an assist from hopes for a developing letup in interest-rate pressures.

One big difference was that the market began Monday some 200 points lower in the Dow than it had been early in June.

And another was that the experts whose predictions then of a possible break in money rates did not work out were talking much less enthusiastically about the prospects now.

In London, William H. Moore, chairman of Bankers Trust New York Corp., said Monday there was hope that banks' prime lending rates could ease from their present prevailing 12 per cent level to 10 or 11 per cent by the end of the year.

"That doesn't strike me as all that bullish," one brokers observed.

Analysts said the market's own internal workings seemed to dictate Monday's gain.

Prices opened on a weak note, then came back to put the Dow up a little more than a point by noon.

Such mild upswings have tended to die out very quickly in the dismal market climate of the past several weeks. When this one did not, it evidently attracted the buying interest of some traders, with plenty of big-name stocks on the "bargain" shelf.

Thus, some of the best jumps were recorded by such top-rank issues as IBM, up 7% at 159.50; Eastman Kodak ahead 2% at 73 1/2; Digital Equipment, up 3% at 77 1/2; and Du Pont, up 4 at 112 1/4.

One big difference was that the market began Monday some 200 points lower in the Dow than it had been early in June.

And another was that the experts whose predictions then of a possible break in money rates did not work out were talking much less enthusiastically about the prospects now.

In London, William H. Moore, chairman of Bankers Trust New York Corp., said Monday there was hope that banks' prime lending rates could ease from their present prevailing 12 per cent level to 10 or 11 per cent by the end of the year.

"That doesn't strike me as all that bullish," one brokers observed.

Analysts said the market's own internal workings seemed to dictate Monday's gain.

Prices opened on a weak note, then came back to put the Dow up a little more than a point by noon.

Such mild upswings have tended to die out very quickly in the dismal market climate of the past several weeks. When this one did not, it evidently attracted the buying interest of some traders, with plenty of big-name stocks on the "bargain" shelf.

Thus, some of the best jumps were recorded by such top-rank issues as IBM, up 7% at 159.50; Eastman Kodak ahead 2% at 73 1/2; Digital Equipment, up 3% at 77 1/2; and Du Pont, up 4 at 112 1/4.

New York (AP) — The stock market picked itself up off the floor long enough to post some good-sized technical gains Monday in the heaviest trading in more than three months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 12.59 to 639.78, reflecting the particularly strong performance of many of the high-priced blue-chip and growth issues.

The over-all advance was less pronounced, with gainers narrowly edging out losers 746 to 690 among the 1,822 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

The day's turnover on the Big Board of 18.37 million shares was the busiest since June 7, when 19.02 million shares changed hands near the peak of a strong but short-lived rally that gave way to a long summer of sharp declines.

The setting for Monday's gain was much the same as it had been in that early June upswing — technical forces within the market exerting much of the upward force, with an assist from hopes for a developing letup in interest-rate pressures.

Kennard Phone Users Receive 60% Rate Cut

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The "system" worked Monday according to the Rev. Joseph Myers and 250 other Kennard telephone subscribers.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission, by a 3-2 margin, voted Monday to cut Blair Telephone Co. rates to Kennard phone users by 60% retroactive to Jan. 1. The commission decided Blair's rates were too high in light of the quality of service.

Rev. Myers, pastor of the Emmaus Lutheran Church in Kennard, and Mrs. Wallace Thompson of Kennard watched anxiously as the commission acted on the application they and others initiated seven months ago.

"Pleased, Overwhelmed"

"We're pleased and overwhelmed," Rev. Myers said afterwards. "It's gratifying to see that we're being heard."

According to commission communications chief Herb Sherdon, the action means the cost of local one-party service in Kennard will drop from 14 to $1.80 per month. The charge for rural service will also drop from $3.75 to $1.70 per month.

The action is reportedly the first time the commission has ordered a telephone company to reduce its rates because of inadequate service.

Commissioners expect the action to have far-reaching repercussions. Other disgruntled phone subscribers are thought to be considering similar action.

Asked if he had been in contact with other communities facing similar problems, Rev. Myers said, "Can I just say 'yes' and leave it at that?"

Rev. Myers said he thought the commission's action was justifiable.

Molotov Cocktail Claim Contested

John Two Birds Arbuckle and LeRoy Casados, activists for Indian and Mexican American causes, were convicted of possession of articles housewives use every day in their homes, a defense attorney told the Nebraska Supreme Court Monday.

Arbuckle was convicted of one count of possession of parts to a Molotov cocktail and one count of possession of a concealed weapon during disturbances in January 1973 in Scottsbluff.

Casados was also convicted of possession of parts to a Molotov cocktail in the same incident.

items non-AIM members would not be arrested for.

He told the court Nebraska's destructive device statute was passed in a period of hysteria and is so vague and indefinite as to be unconstitutional.

Said Sufficient Reason

Ralph Gillan, an assistant attorney general, said the gasoline purchase and the other items, including birthday candles and torn diapers, plus the men's connections with AIM gave authorities sufficient reason to arrest them.

Gillan noted that a Scottsbluff junior high school had been firebombed the previous evening. Judge Hale McCown asked if any connection between Arbuckle and Casados and the firebombing had been established. Gillan said there had not, but "certainly any reasonable person would consider there might be a connection."

The firebombing justified the authorities' "extraordinary care," he said. Law enforcement officers could not wait until another firebombing occurred before acting.

No Improvement Seen

Despite the commission's monitoring of service, Rev. Myers said phone service at Kennard has not improved.

"The service is really bad, especially during the last couple of weeks," he said. "The church's line was out of order all Friday night and Saturday morning."

Commission spokesman Herb Sherdon estimated the order will mean a loss of $780 a month in revenue to the company.

The order to cut rates was sponsored by Commissioner Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont, joined by Robert T. Marland of Lincoln and James Munnely of Omaha.

John Swanson of Eustis and Duane Gay of Columbus dissented.

Gay said he had no quarrel with the finding that Blair's service was inadequate but he questioned whether it was legal and proper to order the rate reduction.

Swanson said the order sets a precedent "that I'm afraid of getting involved in."

Part Of Bomb?

The parts of the bomb, as charged by the state, were five-gallon cans of gasoline, one gallon cider jugs and a clothesline.

James F. Hansen, their attorney, said these items are "not evil in themselves" and could be legally possessed by other people.

However, in the hands of members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) fear and suspicion, he said, turn them into the components of a Molotov cocktail.

The state, Hansen said, failed to demonstrate that Arbuckle and Casados intended to use the articles to make a bomb. Without demonstrating intent, he said the state cannot convict them of illegal possession of

What About LT&T?

"What about Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co.? I lived out here at a house with a dead line for a year. What are you going to do about them?" Swanson asked.

The rate reduction will stay in effect until Blair Telephone has demonstrated that service has been improved. The order also directs Blair to bury additional cable, complete installation of one-party service by March 1, 1975 and make monthly reports on service.

Yield prospects and the general condition of Nebraska's sorghum, corn and soybean crops were further hurt by the second killing frost of the season Sept. 13, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

The frost last week was not as widespread as the first frost, however, the ag experts pointed out in the weekly crop-weather report Monday.

Irrigated corn continues to remain in fair to good condition throughout the state, the report stated. The Sept. 13 frost "probably did not injure the crop extensively, as it had matured earlier than other crops or had already been injured by the frost on Sept. 3," the crop observers said.

"Dryland corn remains in poor to fair condition over the state," the report revealed. "Since the Sept. 3 frost, the crop has continued to deteriorate. Some farmers are harvesting it as silage, and in some cases, the

Lincoln Man Found Dead

A 31-year-old Lincoln man apparently committed suicide Monday morning, Lancaster County Deputy Sheriff Larry Russell said.

Russell identified the man as Clarence E. Patey, 913 O St., an ex-Marine and a barber.

Residents of the building told Russell they thought they heard "something" that could have been a gunshot at about 11:15 a.m. When Patey was not seen Monday evening, apartment manager Arnold Madsen checked his room and found the body.

Patey died of a bullet wound to the head from a .25-caliber automatic pistol, Russell said. The police department plans to run a ballistics test on the gun. A "lot of notes" were found at the scene, Russell said, "but I can't make any sense out of any of them."

Foul play is not suspected, Russell said.

Patey is survived by his mother and brother, Russell said. He said Patey was divorced and had two children.

Harvard Man Killed In Crash Near Hastings

Hastings (AP) — Brian R. Boddy, 31, of Harvard was killed late Sunday in a two-vehicle collision at a county road intersection 2 1/2 miles east of Hastings, the State Patrol reported.

Boddy was a passenger in a car driven by James R. Taylor, 30, of Harvard, who was traveling east. Driver of the northbound car involved was identified as John R. Thomsen, 18, of Hastings.

The death brought the state's 1974 road fatality toll to 277 as compared to 293 at the same time last year.

Twins Get Into Double Trouble

It was a case of seeing double. Twin brothers, driving separate cars southbound on S. 27th, were stopped at Theresa St. early Monday morning and arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Police said one twin told them his brother "had too much to drink." That was why he was following him, the twin said.

No. 1 twin had a blood alcohol content of .15%. No. 2 tested .12%, police said.

Salt Creek Fish Kill Said 'Possibly Total'

By The Associated Press

A large quantity of oil has been blamed for "an extremely heavy, possibly total" fish kill on Salt Creek which was discovered over the weekend, officials said.

The spill occurred between Lincoln and Ashland, where Salt Creek flows into the Platte River, according to Wes Sheets, water quality specialist with the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission.

Sheets said he was hunting on Salt Creek Saturday when he discovered an oil sheen completely covering the creek.

On Sunday, the oil was traced back to the Lincoln N. St. Storm sewer by Sheets, Mike Swiggart of the Department of Environmental Control and four conservation officers.

An investigation of the source of the spill and its extent are continuing.

"The fish mortality in Salt Creek is considered to be extremely heavy, possibly fatal," Sheets said.

"We observed dead fish on all portions of the creek between Lincoln and the Platte," he said.

That is a distance of roughly 25 water miles.

Lethal quantities of oil are not expected beyond Ashland, since the oil is diluted the farther downstream it moves, and through the merging of water on the larger river.

The Game and Parks commission asked citizens to keep watch on Salt Creek and to report any recurrence immediately.

Ford Thanks Scout Troop For Cleanup

Ford's telegram noted the President was a Scout and was "grateful for the experience." He sent "warm greetings."

Thone Says 'Main Ogre' Of Inflation Is Government

Rep. Charles Thone said Monday "the main ogre in unleashing inflation is federal spending," and said the time has come for Americans to "rise up and let Congress know they want federal spending cut."

"If a citizen were to cut a dollar bill in half with a scissors, he could be arrested for defacing U.S. currency," Thone said.

"The majority of Congress, I suggest, should be arrested for defacing the value of every dollar in America."

"As President Ford prepares for his summit meeting Sept. 27-28 on inflation, I am urging him not to lose sight of our most urgent task; this job is to end wasteful deficit spending and balance our federal budget," Thone said.

Thone said he was renewing his recommendation that $10 billion be cut from the federal budget this fiscal year. "This can be done by eliminating foreign aid, keeping the total number of federal employees from growing and by modest cuts in the defense budget," he said.

"I don't think it was many years ago when I didn't know that a trillion is the next unit above billions," Thone said.

"Now, if we keep going in our present trend, we will have a trillion dollar annual federal budget by 1990."

The 1st District congressman said if Americans do not let their
